Spending To Set Record

OTTAWA (CP)—A record federal spending program of $6,545,504,515—with more to come—was handed to Parliament Wednesday by Finance Minister Walter Gordon for the current fiscal year. It was 5.1 per cent higher than last year.

He gave the Commons a wait-and-see notice that economy efforts of the new Liberal government may trim some of this basic spending plan for the 1963-64 year begun April 1. (See Page 1.)

BIG DEFICIT

But the increase made it virtually certain that Mr. Gordon will be forecasting another big deficit when he delivers his first budget speech expected in mid-June.

The former Conservative government predicted a $70,000,000 deficit for last year, and some revenue-reducing tax incentives to industry are anticipated in Mr. Gordon's budget.

DRAFTED BY TORRES

The new estimates of budgetary spending, most of which were drafted by the Conservatives before they left office, compare with the $6,229,189,134 in 1962-63 estimates presented to the last Parliament.

Actual spending will be far higher than the budgetary estimates. These do not include an expected $755,000,000 in universal old age pensions, financed from special taxes, which would boost the spending total to $7,000,000,000.

MORE ADDED

Last year's $735,355,336 in old age pensions brought the total published expenditure program to $6,994,524,470. Final accounting for 1962-63, officials said, will add between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000 to this total.

Much of the boost in spending came from hospital insurance and other welfare measures, public debt charges, pay increases for government employees, and shipbuilding subsidies.

STUDY PROGRAMS

Mr. Gordon reserved the right to scale down items in the Conservative-written main estimates, and said the cabinet's Treasury Board is conducting a study of government programs which "will take some months to complete."

It was also "pressing forward" with a review of recommendations of the Glassco royal commission on government organization.

MUCH NOT COVERED

The new spending program, however, contains no funds for several new measures the government has said it will implement. As well, unforeseen costs always crop up as the year progresses, requiring supplementary appropriations which in recent years have ranged from $120,000,000 to $200,000,000.

There will have to be taken into account in Mr. Gordon's budget speech in which tax and fiscal policies for the coming year will be charted.

Church Love-Text Urged

NEWARK, England (AP)—The young wife of a local vicar suggests the Church of England should publish a text book on love-making.

Too many wives neglect to learn the arts of love, Mrs.

Barbara Lacey wrote in her husband's parish magazine. Mrs. Lacey, 34, and mother of two, is the wife of Rev. Ronald Lacey, vicar of the Anglican Church of St. Leonard.

"Many women who please men outside marriage take great pains over this part of their education," she wrote.

"Must we pass on to our daughters the advice given to so many of us by our mothers—not by mine—that sex must be grudgingly or grudgingly given as a present for a good boy?"

"When we can tell them, and our sons, that snatched bits of fun can't compare with the variety of excitement there can be in a lifetime between husband and wife, then perhaps they'll think marriage worth waiting for."

Police Probe Race Bars In Canada

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police has begun an investigation into the refusal of a St. Catharines, Ont., club to admit 30 Negroes from nearby American business Air Force Base, Secretary of State J. W. Pickersill said Wednesday.

Questioned in the Commons by New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas, Mr. Pickersill said the probe was ordered by the Newfoundland government after complaints about the Clover Club, operated by a U.S. citizen.

ROBERT KENNEDY
... naive shocking

By GORDON DONALDSON

WASHINGTON (TNS)—The countdown has begun for a new racial explosion in the Deep South. It could be the worst yet.

Once again a Southern Governor—George Wallace of Alabama—has set his state on a collision course with the power of the U.S. Supreme Court and the president.

Once again the white terrorists are ready with their bombs. The white mobs are on call, at the least sign of official encouragement, to batter and burn and shoot.

Dangerous Element
Now there is a new element—potentially the most dangerous.

The Southern Negroes have shown in Birmingham that they are no longer scared of the police. Their passive resistance movement has become less passive. Their leaders have become more militant as they feel their control slipping away.

In the South and the North, Negroes are losing patience. They want freedom. They're not sure just what that is, but they want it—now.

Blow-Up June 10

The blow-up is due to take place at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa on June 10. Governor Wallace, 43, has declared that he will place his five-foot-seven-inch frame in the doorway to block the entrance of any Negro student—a piece of symbolism that has prompted the latest joke around Tuscaloosa: the works department is going in to rebuild the doors and make sure they are all five foot seven inches high, and narrower where the head is.

Seven years ago the University expelled its first Negro, Miss

Pope John Continues To Gain

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John, showing continued improvement in his struggle for life, has regained some of his color and has been able to read, pray and meditate, the Vatican reported Wednesday night.

Massive blood transfusions that boosted him through his worst crisis Tuesday apparently still were having effect.

Pope John's Rome physician, Dr. Piero Mazzoni, examined the 81-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church Wednesday evening, then left the Vatican. Other medical attendants stood by.

Despite the reported improvement, the Vatican acknowledged for the first time that the Pope's illness is grave and that he has been through acute crisis. The threat of a new crisis is always present.

MOOD RELAXED

The mood at the Vatican relaxed somewhat, however. One report said that Dr. Piero Mazzoni, one of the physicians, told a high priest that if the Pope continues showing improvement he might be able to rise from his bed in a week or so to sit in a chair.

The Vatican press office announced late Wednesday night it was closing down until morning.

TRANQUIL NIGHT

A Vatican communiqué published by the newspaper L'Osservatore Romano Wednesday said the Pope had "a night of tranquil repose during which he did not need assistance."

Examination by Dr. Mazzoni at 10 a.m. Wednesday showed clear improvement in the Pope's general condition, it said. The doctor had spent eight straight nights in the Vatican palace.

NOTE OF CAUTION

But there was a note of caution.

The communiqué spoke of "acute moments of crisis" and said the Pope had not suffered "any lapses or bewilderment" during them.

Out But In

Four members of British Guiana parliament, including Premier Cheddi Jagan, above, were ordered removed yesterday for "deplorable behavior" in debate over new emergency laws. But Speaker Rhaman Gajraj couldn't enforce removal order because sergeant-at-arms was on strike.

German Church Told

'Resist Red Abuses'

BERLIN (AP)—The leadership of the Protestant church in East Germany has directed its subordinates to stand up to abuses of the Communist regime and resist efforts to restrict church affairs.

In a significant document unanimously approved by a church conference in East Germany last March, the church said it recognizes the regime since the "bearers of state power remain in the hand of God."

"But, it added, 'the church must not condone any misuse of this power, even if we must suffer.'"

Otto Dibelius, bishop of the Evangelical Protestant Church, has said that because of the nature of the Communist regime, Christians should resist any laws that infringe on their religious principles. Bishop Dibelius heads a district divided between East and West Germany.

A copy of the document was obtained by The Associated Press and its authenticity confirmed by church officials. There has been no comment on the document yet from Communist officials, although church spokesmen said they are aware of its existence.

"We would act in disobedience to God if we do not stand up for truth. If we remain silent when state power is abused and if we are not ready to obey God more than human beings," the church declared.

Price Groundless

● If you are paying 15 cents for a cup of coffee, you are paying too much—according to the Pan-American Coffee Bureau of New York. Columnist business editor Harry Young quotes the facts and figures on Page 8. Cost of the coffee per cup, says the bureau, is 1.25 cents, with Canadian import prices at a seven-year low.

Red Wall Guards 'Shoot to Miss'

BERLIN (UPI)—A Soviet fighter plane Wednesday buzzed a U.S. Air Force transport and the incident prompted a United States protest against "dangerous maneuvers" in the Berlin air corridors.

An American spokesman said the Soviet fighter flew within 200 feet of a C-97 transport and then followed the plane until its final approach to Tempelhof airport.

Earlier, an East German army officer who fled to West Berlin said border guards are shooting to miss refugees trying to reach the west and cover up by deliberately getting poor scores in target practice.

The refugee, a 33-year-old lieutenant of the 2nd Motorized Infantry Regiment which is stationed southwest of Berlin, fled March 30.

THROUGH WIRE

Two other East German soldiers fled through barbed wire to the French sector in uniform and carrying their submachine guns early Wednesday.

The lieutenant, identified only as Klaus T., told a news conference that the majority of East German soldiers sympathize with refugees.

The Communists, meantime, told President Kennedy he should stay home and demolish "the wall of shame of Alabama" instead of coming to Berlin.

Two Monks Offer Lives For Freedom

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Two South Vietnamese Buddhist monks have volunteered to commit suicide to dramatize demands for more religious freedom.

Rev. Thien Minh said Wednesday the Viet Nam Buddhist Association was studying the offer but had not yet decided whether to accept it.

The Buddhists, who make up about 80 per cent of the population, claim the government under Roman Catholic Premier Ngo Dinh Diem discriminates against them.

White Man In Kenya Cabinet?

NAIROBI (UPI)—Jomo Kenyatta, whose party won Kenya's parliamentary elections this week, will bring at least one white man into his cabinet, informed sources said Thursday. (See Page 5.)

The former Mau Mau leader is expected to name Bruce MacKenzie as minister of agriculture.

The sources said labor leader Tom Mboya will become the nation's first foreign minister. James Gichuru the treasury minister and Oginga Odinga the home secretary.

DOUGLAS FISHER

All Parties Failed Says Blunt MP

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons' self-appointed critic, Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur), bluntly cautioned all parties Wednesday against moving toward another election.

Surveying the rows of empty Commons seats, Mr. Fisher, a history teacher and newspaper columnist, tipped off the handful of MPs of the unpleasant remarks by remarking on the "contagious excitement of this mass audience."

Then he hit them all, including himself, with the flat statement that the April 8 election showed all political parties to be failures. The Liberals were the greatest because they'd been talking in terms of winning 100 or 120 seats instead of the 129 they emerged with.

The New Democratic Party, his own, showed itself a failure as a national force, he said.

Kennedy Concerned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A deeply concerned President Kennedy moved on a series of fronts Wednesday to combat discrimination against Negroes in hope of preventing future racial violence.

Climaxing a day of swift-moving activity, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and a group of his aides met privately at the White House with presidential advisers to plan new legislative and other civil rights moves.

The chief executive underscored his personal concern earlier by inviting home 100 businessmen to meet with him Monday to discuss difficulties facing Negroes in "securing employment and equal access" to stores, theatres, hotels and other public places.

In the Birmingham ruling U.S. District Judge Hobart Grooms dismissed a government suit seeking integration of public schools near the nation's flight centre at Huntsville, Ala.

More U.S. Jets in Canada?

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Rusk said Wednesday the United States seeks to settle outstanding nuclear issues with Canada in the fullest spirit of co-operation.

Rusk commented on a Washington Post report that the U.S. would like to base eight new interceptor jet squadrons in Canada as part of an air defence build-up but that the Pearson government is opposed to the idea.

While both governments there is definite foundation for have officially denied the report, military informants said.

American air defence authorities favor greater flexibility in the dispersal of NORAD jet squadrons; increased capability of Canadian squadrons to move to forward or alternate bases, and greater manoeuvrability of U.S. plants across the Canada-U.S. border.

One informant suggested a possible compromise is that the Canadian government will allow U.S. plants to make an increased number of flights over Canada with nuclear weapons.

However, no official communication has been received.

Informal Notice Given

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has received "informal" notice that the United States government intends to make some proposal about stationing more U.S. fighter squadrons in this country, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said in the Commons Wednesday.

Race Terror Near

Autherine Lucy, after three days of rioting, on the grounds that she made slanderous statements about the administration. But the court order, admitting Miss Lucy still holds good for any other Negro.

Wallace has been summoned before a federal court in Birmingham June 3 to show cause why an injunction should not be issued barring him from interfering with the enrolment of Negroes.

So by June 10 — when Miss Vivian Malone, 20, is due to enroll at Tusculum and David McGlathery, 27, at the University's Huntsville branch — the legal decks should be clear. If the injunction is granted against the governor, he can be carted off to jail without delay if he does, as he promised, "stand in the schoolhouse door."

Troops if Needed

President Kennedy has made it clear he will use troops if necessary. He and brother Robert, the attorney general, are in a position where they have to make a show of force unless Wallace backs down.

Robert Kennedy has just suffered the worst humiliation of his career. He met with a dozen Negroes in New York, including Harry Belafonte, Lena Horne and 35-year-old James Baldwin, a writer who has leapt to fame as the current voice of Negro discontent. Baldwin said afterwards: "We were a little shocked at the extent of his naivete." A Negro psychologist, Dr. Kenneth Clark, said: "I don't know whether to laugh or cry or both. We were trying to say this was an emergency for our country as Americans. This never got over."

Wallace Hot-Eyed

However naive Bobby Kennedy may be, he cannot compare with his opponent in the present mess, George Wallace. Wallace, a hot-eyed country boy, was elected last winter on a pledge of "segregation now, segregation forever." And segregation is about all he has to offer.

He sits in his elegant office in the white state capital at Montgomery, a few yards from the spot on which Jefferson Davis was proclaimed president of the Confederacy. There he puffs Cuban cigars and spits accurately into a wastepaper basket. He talks vaguely about the superiority of the Anglo-Saxons and believes seriously that Kwame Nkrumah, the British-educated leader of Ghana, is a practising cannibal.

He dreams vaguely of the White House (if the cannibals can run Ghana, he seems to feel, the nee-necks can run the U.S.A.).

By facing up to federal might at the University of Alabama he can wreck more havoc than Governors Orval Faubus of Arkansas and Ross Barnett of Mississippi wrought before him.

Wallace forswears the support of South Carolina, Louisiana, and, at least, Mississippi, and proclaims that he will wield the balance of power and decide who succeeds President Kennedy.

It won't work, according to realistic Southerners here. The South since 1945 and since 1954, when the Supreme Court ordered school desegregation.

Wallace's neighbor governors in Georgia and South Carolina are pledged to support the law, even if they don't like it. Only Mississippi will go along with him 100 per cent — and Mississippi is the parish state of the union, at which even Alabama shudders.

More Ominous

Now that the scene has shifted to Tusculum it becomes more ominous.

That is the home of Robert Sheldon, Imperial Wizard of the Alabama Ku Klux Klan. His bedsheeted braves burn crosses regularly around the campus outskirts.

Wallace has his blue-shirted state highway patrol — whose arrival did so much to heighten tension in Birmingham — plus the guns and tanks and jet fighters of the Alabama National Guard.

But the greatest danger of a showdown in oak-shaded Tusculum will be its effect on the Negroes.

Their revolt in the South can yet flare into outright revolution.

Crisis Snowballing

ity to bring a suit such as this," Grooms commented.

The ruling went right to the heart of an issue now under study by the Kennedy administration — whether to seek congressional enactment of legislation that would permit the attorney-general to initiate court suits to protect civil rights.

WILL BE APPEALED

A justice department spokesman said Groom's ruling would be appealed to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

The Philadelphia clash took place at a school construction site and involved 200 police officers and pickets protesting alleged racial bias on the part of the board of education.

TEN INJURED

Eight policemen and two pickets were injured in the skirmishes which flared when the pickets tried to prevent construction workers from reporting to their jobs.

Philadelphia integration leader Cecil Moore threatened that 4,000 pickets would take part in demonstrations Friday, and that 20,000 persons would stage protests at school projects next Monday.

In Jackson, Miss., police arrested 11 pickets protesting segregation, and broke up a crowd of whites. The demonstrators carried signs urging a Negro boycott of segregated downtown stores.

BEATEN, DOUSED

Three integrationists who staged a lunch counter sit-in at a Woolworth store in Jackson Tuesday were beaten and doused with catsup and mustard by jeering whites.

At Baton Rouge, La., about 50 state troopers were deployed around the Capitol and 300 others were alerted to guard against rumored racial demonstrations. All the officers were armed with night sticks.

Pills Help Fight Arthritis

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am only 30 but have been told by two doctors that I have arthritis and that there is nothing they can do but give me pills to ease the pain.

I don't believe in "living on pain pills" so I don't take any.

I don't know whether I should exercise my limbs or not.—Mrs. H.J.

If by "pain pills" you mean salicylates (aspirin and similar) you are overlooking the fact that they are anti-inflammatory medication as well.

So, for your own well-being as well as comfort, abandon this notion about "living on pain pills."

Heat also is excellent for these stiffened, painful joints. A hot bath, a hot pad, a hot-water bottle, any means that applies heat will bring relief. It won't, to be sure, be a cure. None exists. But relief does.

As to exercise, no. Movement, yes. I hope this distinction is clear. Sheer exercise, just for the sake of exertion, will not help and may harm the arthritic joints. On the other hand, movement of them, to the fullest degree possible, prevents them from becoming gradually stiffer.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you explain why in the morning I weigh 110 pounds, and maybe 111 or 112 in the afternoon or evening?—B.C.

A pound or two is easily explainable in terms of moisture alone. You expel a little moisture every time you breathe.

Then at breakfast and lunch you not only eat, but you drink coffee, milk, water. You are constantly gaining or losing a little.

That's why, for people who keep track of their weight, we suggest weighing at the same time each day, preferably the first thing in the morning.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband recently had a terrible pain in his side. The doctor called it an incomplete hernia. Please explain.—MRS. H. C.

Sure he didn't say indirect? Hernias are classified as direct or indirect, depending on location in the groin area. There is also the situation of a relaxed inguinal ring which is what most of us refer to as a potential hernia formation. The doctor may have referred to the latter as an incomplete hernia.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done for cold sores? I frequently break out with four or five of them on my lip. Some people believe this to be hereditary and others think it is a nervous condition.—J.M.

Neither heredity nor nerves is the cause. It's a virus (Herpes simplex). There is considerable medical opinion to the effect that some people are exposed to it in childhood but do not acquire any immunity to it as they do to other germs. The virus remains and breaks out into a new cold sore when resistance lags, as when you have a cold or get too tired. A smallpox vaccination stops the trouble for some people. For others, it doesn't, and the application of a drying agent, as a camphor lotion, is about all that you can do.

U.S. Denies Cuba Shots

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Rusk Wednesday denied a U.S. Navy plane fired on a Soviet-Cuban oil drilling crew off Cuba's north coast.

The Cuban armed forces ministry charged a twin-engine plane fired at the crew with "a thick-calibre machinegun" Sunday.

Arms Talk Ends In a Pigeonhole

GENEVA (UPI)—The U.S. and Russia Wednesday presented a formula that avoided open admission of their failure to agree on the first steps of disarmament after four months of negotiations.

They informed the 17-nation disarmament conference they will hold private bilateral talks on the deadlock over the reduction of nuclear rocket stock-

Canada Speaks Out

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada offered support Wednesday for a short-term financing plan to carry United Nations peace forces through the last half of this year.

Ambassador Paul Tremblay said the "immediate and pressing" task before the current special session of the General Assembly is to maintain for the next few months the UN Congo force and UN emergency force in the Middle East.

He warned that if members are not able to agree on sound financing methods, the UN "stands in real danger of becoming no more than an expensive shell around a marble podium for the delivery of polite speeches."

Tremblay spoke before the Assembly's 111-member budgetary committee, which for two weeks has been considering the UN's financial position.

The budgetary committee is expected to agree on a sliding scale for meeting the cost of the Congo and Middle East forces.

Pope John

ALL over the Christian world and elsewhere besides anxious eyes are turned this week to the Vatican, where the Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church lies gravely ill. A deep concern exists that transcends the bounds of the Roman faith and unites Christians in prayers for his recovery.

It is no small measure of the Pontiff that in the brief five years of his papal reign the title "Pope John" should have become a familiar and hopeful synonym for peace and goodwill. Few of his predecessors have so quickly made their name such a household word. He has loomed to all as a kindly, gracious and liberal figure, a man of noble Christian humanity whose influence in a troubled world would be difficult to replace.

Not alone among his own church but widely beyond it he has won an abiding respect and reverence for the simplicity of his pontificate and his earnest desire to heal the schisms of Christianity. In the political realm also to which all life is attuned his touch and authority has been manifest and employed in efforts to reconcile conflicting aims and ambitions.

Pope John has infused the Holy See with a new and refreshing spirit that promised much for both Roman and Protestant worlds and thus for the well of mankind in general. He enjoys a warm and universal admiration, and anxiety for his recovery is boundless and of deep sincerity of heart.

A Question of Value

IT HAS BEEN SAID that from the very moment Prime Minister Pearson assumed office relations between Canada and the United States took a turn for the better.

Certainly this view gained considerable credence when Mr. Pearson and President Kennedy had their cozy chat in Hyannis Port a few weeks ago.

There, in the privacy of the Kennedy Compound, the prime minister apparently completed with dispatch and firmness the formalities involved in presenting the president with another rocking chair and then quickly got down to the business of smoothing out all the kinks and bumps which were alleged to have disrupted the smooth flow of U.S.-Canadian diplomatic intercourse during the last two years of the Diefenbaker rule.

Though the official communique issued after the meeting revealed little or nothing of what went on between the two leaders, it has since become obvious that Mr. Pearson agreed to Mr. Kennedy's request that certain Canadian policies should be brought more into line with those desired and advocated by the United States.

What the prime minister was promised in return for these concessions is, of course, yet unknown. It may well be that he considers the rapprochement sufficient reward in itself.

On the other hand, if President Kennedy is considering expressing his satisfaction in the change of government in Canada in some tangible way he might easily do it by acting upon Mr. Pearson's persistent appeals to put an end to the continuing illegal harassment of Canadian ships and their crews in U.S. Great Lakes ports.

For some considerable time now the American Seafarers' International Union has picketed and prevented vessels flying the Canadian ensign from loading and discharging their cargoes in U.S. ports, despite the ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court that American labor laws have no authority over ships of foreign registry.

The violence and fury used against Canadian seamen in American ports has, in fact, mounted to such a pitch that one observer expresses the opinion that for sheer blood and bitterness it makes the war of 1812 look mild in comparison.

Already the situation has all the earmarks of resolving itself into a dangerous and costly international situation. It is well within President Kennedy's powers to demand a cessation of the present hostilities, and even though such action might not endear him to the American labor lords involved, it would prove beyond doubt that he values Mr. Pearson's friendship as much as Mr. Pearson unquestionably values his.

Into a New Era

IN an atmosphere of grace and goodwill history was made on Monday last when this year's Victoria College graduates received their UBC diplomas at the hands of Dr. Phyllis Ross, chancellor of the Point Grey university. They were the last of a long and distinguished line of students graduating under the auspices of the parent university.

On July 1 Victoria College formally becomes Victoria University and next year degrees will be awarded under the imprint of the Gordon Head Institution by the present chancellor-elect Judge J. B. Clearthue.

Under its new and elevated status Victoria University will go forward to the heights and separate distinction which time and evolution has made desirable, continuing, as Dr. Ross emphasized, "the unique benefits of sound teaching and scholarship" which have been the mark of the local college.

The long course of discussion and negotiation culminating in the independent status belonging to this area's own university is now ended. The dream of a university of distinctive local character and direction has become reality, complementing the buildings which in time should make the Gordon Head campus one which spreads its fame in the academic world of today.

There is the continued promise of co-operation from the parent Point Grey institution to which Victoria College has owed its past reputation, and the separation has been happily consummated by the broad educational outlook of UBC's President Dr. John Macdonald and the legislation of the Bennett government.

From July 1 this area becomes a "university town" and a fresh chapter begins in the educational life of the many students for whom henceforth Victoria University will be the alma mater of their higher learning. It is in a spirit of hope and confidence that the combined community of Greater Victoria, and Vancouver Island in general, will look to the future attainments and progress of the Gordon Head university.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling Wex...

By TOM TAYLOR

AN old gentleman writes to me and says "I hope you can read this letter, as I am well in my eighties, and my hand is pretty shaky." I hope if I'm spared to my eighties that my hand has retained an equal cunning. There was no strain reading his calligraphy and I'd like to congratulate him on his penmanship. He patiently learned it at a school which put some value on handwriting.

I would call his style old-fashioned except that I don't agree that things are old-fashioned because they weren't invented yesterday. A good penman is never demode, and I could wish that all persons who write to newspapers took the same care as my correspondent has done.

His sentences are coined with clarity—not that in letters to me this matters so much as being able to read the words without endless wonder as to what in fact these are.

I am somewhat guilty in my own handwritten correspondence. I'm afraid, but this doesn't lessen my discomfort when puzzling out that of some others.

Unfortunately I can't identify my reader since he wants to remain anonymous, and since he is an old war veteran I respect his wishes. It is because he is a veteran that he writes to me: in search of that elusive being, the "King's or Queen's Corporal."

As my regular readers know this is a subject dealt with in this space more than once, albeit without definitive result. The last time it was mentioned coupled the matter with the Scots Greys Regiment, which has aroused my correspondent's interest. He never was a Grey but he tells me it was a direct ancestor of his who founded this famous cavalry unit.

Nor, of course, can I reveal the ancestor's name either for that would be a giveaway to my "old gentleman's" identity and I don't betray staunch old warriors of yesterday.

He wants to know if I have found out the origin of the "Queen's (or King's) Corporal" mystery, for mystery it is. Officially, that is.

I must answer not yet, even though I have put out queries in a variety of directions. But one of these days, come the felicity of research and discovery, we shall probe it further.

Meantime there is both legend and fact to be sorted into perspective. My correspondent says that in 1880 around 1890 there was a bar steward who enjoyed the distinction of being a "King's Corporal," and there are too many memories of this sort for the distinction to be but a myth.

Both the military folk at Whitehall and Ottawa claim official recognition of such a rank or title ever being extant, but this is not necessarily a criterion. It may well be, and probably is, that the "King's Corporal" story is in the last of those unofficial but treasured privileges that so many British Army regiments hug to their bosom—and dare officialdom to deprive them of. There the matter stands at present, my old gentleman of the line handwriting. And aren't the latter you make me envious.

Awesome Creation but...

Is U.S. Navy Out of Date?

A BRITISH correspondent who has just visited the Sixth (Mediterranean) Fleet must ask this question urgently—not only in the overall context of the East-West military balance, but also in the immediate context of what the fleet can do to reinforce Europe's southern flank.

First, it must be acknowledged that the U.S. Sixth Fleet is an awesome creation—certainly the most powerful force that has ever sailed European seas in peace time.

Its 30 ships, rotating at four to six months intervals with others from the United States, at present include the 86,000-ton nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise and the 8,000-ton nuclear frigate Bainbridge. Its heavy aircraft include 1,600 m.p.h. Phantom II interceptors and Mach 2 Vigilante bombers which can strike deep into the vital communication area behind a Soviet attack on Western or Southern Europe, or the Central Treaty countries of Turkey, Iran or Pakistan.

To stand on the bridge of the Enterprise, watching night take-offs and landings at one every 15 seconds, is to witness the earth's most impressive and terrifying spectacle since the explosion of the H-bomb or the launching of the first Atlas rocket.

The ship herself is a 22-deck monster from whose working and living quarters, including computer rooms, radar stations, engineering shops and 14 cinemas, a member of her 5,000 crew may not emerge to daylight for four or five days on end.

Yet the knowledge persists that this fearsome weapon was conceived under a strategic doctrine entirely different from that now obtaining; that it was created in the days of "massive retaliation" before the development of long-range rockets; and before the embarkation of the Soviet Union on a massive nuclear submarine program.

In an official paper the Fleet Commander, Vice-Admiral William E. Gendler, describes the Sixth Fleet as a "well-balanced force, capable of waging any kind of warfare; not only conventional or general, atomic or conventional." And until quite recently this was true, as witness the role of the navy in the 1958 Lebanon operation.

But with the advent of new doctrines and weapons can aircraft as expensive as the $17 million Vigilante be hazarded in operations where their role is to drop, not nuclear, but conventional bombs—and this when the Soviet destruction of Gary Powers' U-2 plane suggests that only a fraction would penetrate Soviet anti-aircraft defences?

In the event of the Navy's employment in nuclear war, as part of the "flexible response," the problem is more complicated.

On one hand it must be conceded that the seemingly vulnerable aircraft-carrier is much better able to defend itself against medium or long-range rockets than at first seems possible. Thus an intermediate range ballistic rocket may take 15 minutes between launching and impact—time enough for a nuclear carrier to move five to 10 miles from her original position.

Moreover, a modern ship with several armored decks and ability to "seal" her air intakes would escape radiation and blast damage except from a very close hit. In exercises observed by this correspondent an atomic "explosion" 5,800 yards away caused only non-vital damage.

On the other hand the attack role of manned bombers in a nuclear war is patently in decline and passing to weapons like the Polaris-firing submarine which, not needing surface escorts, is no longer strictly a naval unit but a strategic one.

An even greater threat to the future of the aircraft carrier is the nuclear hunter-killer submarine, which both the United States and the Soviet Union are producing in quantity. Defence against it is compromised, both by the difficulty of underwater detection (increased in warm waters) and by the choice of a counter-weapon for its destruction.

The modern anti-submarine device, Asroc, launches either an underwater torpedo or an atomic depth-charge. But the torpedo must wait an improvement in its "homing" capability before becoming truly effective against fast-moving underwater craft.

The defence thus rests on a form of nuclear warfare, as was made plain by the Deputy Supreme Commander Atlantic, in a recent address to Loyola University, New Orleans. But who would take the decision to initiate a nuclear war for this limited purpose? And can it be supposed that there is a different acceptable nuclear "threshold" for sea-war as opposed to land?

If a European observer harbours these doubts, it is not from cynicism towards the character of the Sixth Fleet, which performs a vital peace-keeping task and can teach Europe much in the use of nuclear propulsion, mobility and independence of shore bases.

Rather they stem from a close European interest in the naval debate now going on in Washington, and above all in the future shape of a navy which has based its major planning on the aircraft carrier.

Has the carrier a future? And if it has not, what can replace it in the vital sphere of limited, non-nuclear war?

Slippery Commodity

By GREGORY CLARK

AS OLD as the quest of a squirrel to find a safe place to hide nuts is the quest of fortunate men to find a safe place to stash their wealth.

In olden times, the men of strength and wit who amassed wealth built castles behind moats and thick walls with drawbridges, and they served very well for a time. But some daughter or granddaughter married the wrong girl; and the strain of strength and wit died out, and tough strangers took over the castles, moats, walls, drawbridges and all, including the rank and titles.

Uncomfortable Man

By RICHARD JACKSON Colonist Ottawa Bureau

YOU wouldn't want to be in former Conservative defence minister Douglas Harkness' shoes these days.

Without doubt, and not excepting the unhappy and curiously hostile attitudes of Social Credit, fire-eating Ron Couette and a humble-punching Robert Thompson, the ruggedly independent MP for Calgary North is the most uncomfortable man in the Commons.

His former cabinet colleagues cut him lolly cold. His party associates, the Conservative rank and file in the House, openly revile him. And probably most humiliating of all, the triumphant Liberals—who owe him so much—gleefully applaud him each time he rises in the Commons to so much as ask a brief question.

The Conservatives, front and backbenchers alike, blame Harkness, even more than former party glamor boy, trade minister George Hees, for last April's election disaster. It was his resignation, they say, that brought the cabinet "revel" against former prime minister Diefenbaker into the open, revealed the party so deeply divided, gave campaign aid and comfort to the Liberal "enemy," and banished them, once again, into the wilderness of Opposition.

There was talk, in the first week of this opening session of the new Parliament that Harkness would be expelled from the Conservative caucus. For while the Toronto wing, or the Bigtown segment of the party, might still nurse hopes of dumping Diefenbaker as leader, the Parliamentary caucus remains fanatically loyal to the former Prime Minister.

To a man—except, of course, for Harkness—the Patriote MP (and by sheer weight of overwhelming numbers they boss the caucus) are dedicated to Dief. They, it was openly boasted at the initial Commons caucus, would hurl Harkness, beaten and bloody, right through the solid oak doors.

These were the same partisans who, marching into that dramatic pre-election caucus when Dief faced down George Hees and his "rebel" rump of the Conservative Cabinet, said they were "going to get in some of them there Bay Street Barons."

But, at this first post-election caucus, nothing really happened—or did it? There was the former Prime Minister, at the guarded doors, adlibbing shaking hands with all

The New Cabinet

Hon. J. R. Garland

By GORDON BEWAR

One of a series of sketches on members of the new government.

NATIONAL Revenue Minister John R. Garland has a job in the new Liberal Government which no revenue minister before him ever had. When he was named to the ministry, responsibility for the government's housing authority—Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation—was placed in his hands and removed from the Public Works Department (huge enough even without CMHC).

At the age of 45, Mr. Garland already has 16 years of active experience in the political field.

He moved from Smith Falls to North Bay in 1940 to manage a soft-drink manufacturing firm which he later purchased. By 1947 he had been elected to North Bay City Council, an office he held for three years. In 1949 he was nominated for and won the riding of Nipissing, which he has represented ever since.

For several years in Parliament Mr. Garland was most active in work related to external affairs. He served on the External Affairs Committee several times and has been among Canadian representatives to NATO meetings three times and to the United Nations once.

Following the election of 1958, however, he became official Liberal critic on housing, a subject which he has since studied closely and on which he often criticized Conservative policy.

Having done that, the new minister is now spending time examining existing legislation on housing with an eye to the changing needs of the country. He said a great part of his time in the past few weeks has been taken with such review and that he has some ideas he will present, in time, to the Cabinet and Parliament.

His work with national revenue is not expected to be so pressing, since the department operates on a firm set of regulations and is found by the minister to operate well with its efficient and well-trained staff.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

Joan of Arc was burned at the stake 532 years ago today—in 1431—after being condemned as a heretic. The Maid of Orleans, one of France's most striking historical figures, led an army of 6,000 men against the English invaders and forced them to raise the siege of the city of Orleans. The English army retreated before the French, inspired by her figure dressed in armor, mounted on a black charger. But her enemies delivered her to the English and her death. She was canonized in 1920.

1848—Frederickton, N.B., was incorporated.

1672—Peter the Great, Czar of Russia, was born.

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in this column, letters must be on subjects of general interest, and it should be a personal letter, accompanied by the writer's name and address.

Reg John Crosby's article on page 7, May 5th issue, may I rebuke him for the expression he used in the second world war, when he writes:

"The first, which was such a quaint little contest in view of the second..."

Was it? It was slaughter—mass slaughter, as is proved by all war memorials.

On these are listed the dead of both wars, and those of the first war are sadly long in comparison with those of the second war.

I have read somewhere that more people were killed in one battle during the 1914-18 war than in the whole of the dreadful second war—but massacre as the first war was, this hardly seems possible.

However, the first war was not a "quaint little contest in view of the second..."

Noble Sacrifice

The sugar situation has simply enhanced the point that the "rich are growing richer". Noticeable is the grading of the increase in money given, in classified form, to a now affluent society merging into grades of preference or privilege.

The old-age pensioner—existing on the pension alone—and the limited income section of society are cleverly being placed "below the salt" financially. The majority of people know that there is no real shortage of sugar, but in keeping with the chameleonic manner has for many years been putting political pressure on our untrained politicians. Having lived in that province for a number of years I realize it is not the ordinary Frenchman who feels he is being badly treated, and surely the highest positions have been held by Frenchmen. We have had prime ministers and a governor-general, and we have had our fill of "Wee Canada." The powers that be should get busy and settle this nonsense or we shall be legislating for everyone to speak Russian and Chinese. Of course we would all like to be perfect linguists, but we don't want the Tower of Babel back on our hands! A. CAROLYN BAYFIELD, Victoria, B.C.

You are to be commended on your editorial re Vancouver Island-Mainland ferry service, in your issue of May 18, "Ferry Fares."

This is one of the matters that deeply concerns the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, but it is only one of the issues; there are several others.

It is about time that there was a completely new assessment of the position and requirements of Vancouver Island by both the Federal and Provincial governments. There are signs that the people of the Island are becoming aware of the necessity of such re-appraisal.

Cardinals Carry On

By EUGENE LEVIN
from Vatican City

The illness of Pope John focuses attention on the Roman Catholic Church's College of Cardinals.

These 82 princes of the church represent the Pope's senate. They are his closest advisers and collaborators. Cardinals also head Vatican administrative bodies that manage the day-to-day affairs of the church.

It will be the cardinals, gathered in secret conclave, who will elect a new pope. Almost certainly they will choose one of their number.

With the Pope ill, more work falls on their shoulders, particularly on Amleto Cardinal Cigognani, Vatican secretary of state.

The 80-year-old Italian cardinal probably is better acquainted with Pope John's thoughts and policies than any other prelate. He is the only prelate known to have seen the Pope daily since illness became critical last week.

But only the Pope can act on such matters as his ecclesiastical council and diplomatic negotiations the Vatican is said to have entered with Hungary and Poland.

The Pope is the absolute ruler of the Roman Catholic Church. It recognizes no substitute for his authority.

His dominant role is reflected in the provision that an ecclesiastical council is suspended automatically on the death of the Pope who convened it. The new pope can leave it suspended or reconvene it.

Vatican sources feel that Pope John's council, due to reconvene Sept. 8, may have to be postponed if he cannot approve draft documents to be put before it.

The prospect in the case of prolonged illness is that the Vatican administration agencies will continue to handle current affairs, leaving major problems in abeyance.

In an interregnum, between the death of one pope and the election of another, such a situation also exists.

The cardinals have an even more prominent role, and the central figure is not the secretary of state—but the cardinal chamberlain, Benedetto Aloisi Masella.

In the period of interregnum all cardinals present in Rome will meet daily to handle routine business. The chamberlain will serve as a sort of interim administrator.

Not less than 15 days after a pope's death, and not more than 18, the cardinals must meet in secret conclave to elect a new pontiff.

The next conclave will meet under rules revised by Pope John last October—a month before he became seriously ill. Previously a majority of two-thirds of voting cardinals, plus one, was needed to elect a pope. Pope John changed the rule so that a two-thirds majority is sufficient unless the conclave cannot be divided into equal thirds. In that case, the two-thirds-plus-one rule applies.

Handle Current Affairs

The next conclave will be the biggest ever, for Pope John enlarged the College of Cardinals. At present it has 29

Italian members and 53 of other nationalities.

Although the relative strength of the Italian group is smaller than it has been in centuries, it is likely that the next pope will be Italian. There has not been a non-Italian pope since the Dutch-born Adrian VI, elected in 1522.

Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, 65, Archbishop of Milan, is most frequently mentioned among possible future popes. He was a close collaborator of Pope Pius XII. Another Italian archbishop, signing in speculation is Alfonso Castaldo, of Naples. He is 72.

The Reprieve of Duvalier

Did de Gaulle Foil U.S.?

By HAROLD MORRISON

French President de Gaulle may have forced the United States to think twice about encouraging the overthrow of Haitian President Francois Duvalier.

While the U.S. screamed about the alleged butchery of the Duvalier regime, de Gaulle sent the strongman a letter discussing the warm cultural relations between France and the tiny Caribbean country.

U.S. authorities maintain, however, the de Gaulle letter, in reply to one sent to him by Duvalier, had no impact on American policy. What the U.S. had hoped, in fact, was to "scare" Duvalier out of Haiti by encouraging prospects of an internal revolt against his regime. American authorities now admit their policy backfired.

Instead of seeking to escape from Haiti with a huge fortune that he is reported to have amassed, Duvalier quietly rode out the storm and the threat of an invasion from neighboring Dominican Republic.

Now there are reports circulating in the press quoting high sources as saying the U.S. belatedly sees no present alternative to the Duvalier dictatorship.

It appears in retrospect that just as the U.S. tried to change the political situation in Cuba and failed, it now faces failure in its policy on Haiti. The U.S. wants to get rid of Duvalier but doesn't seem to know how to do it without losing a great deal of grace in world affairs.

French Guessing Game

Is Count Pretender To de Gaulle Throne?

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG from Paris

Frenchmen have found a new national guessing game—name a successor for President de Gaulle.

De Gaulle's seven-year term as president ends in January, 1968. Aides say he has just about decided not to run again—he would be 75 then—except in case of grave national emergency or unless an East-West summit conference is in sight with prospects of a sweeping cold war settlement with the Russians.

Since he was allowed to return from exile after the war, the count has stayed discreetly in the background. He has never taken part in active politics and is almost unknown to the average Frenchman.

Officials said it would take a tremendous political build-up on television, radio and in the press during the next few years to give the count even a fighting chance. So far there has been no sign of such a campaign even starting.

The next president will be elected by popular vote of the whole nation instead of by a limited college of 80,000 "grand electors" as de Gaulle himself was. Because of de Gaulle's immense influence on the French masses, any candidate to whom he gave the nod would enjoy a major advantage.

Insiders said that, as things now stand, de Gaulle probably would plump for 51-year-old Premier Georges Pompidou, a loyal Gaullist who could be counted on to carry on the general's policies.

Although a royalist and descendant of the Kings of France, the count is said to be a firm believer in the republican form of government.

For a number of years he has visited de Gaulle from time to time.

De Gaulle in his younger days was a known royalist

BACKGROUND

Kenyatta Expected To Forget the Past

By SEAN BROWNE

The time: 10 years ago. The place: a small schoolhouse in Kenya's remote West Suk tribal reserve. On trial were the officers of the banned Kenya African Union, charged with organizing the dreaded Mau Mau terror movement.

Convicted with his lieutenants was Jomo (Burning Spear) Kenyatta, then 33 and a striking, majestic figure. He drew eight years for managing and being a member of "an unlawful society"—the movement sworn to drive the Europeans from Kenya.

The evidence was flimsy. I reported the trial, and I can testify to that.

Of dozens of witnesses called, only one linked Kenyatta, in the vaguest way, with Mau Mau. This was a Kikuyu girl called Wambui. The defence brought from her an admission that she was, in fact, a prostitute.

But Kenyatta had to go. The court banished him to the arid Northern Frontier, where he served out his sentence in a heavily guarded compound.

The whites sneered. They said Kenyatta was in failing health; that he survived only on a large daily intake of brandy; that he would die without it.

Jomo Kenyatta has proved them wrong. Today he is prime minister designate of his country.

The Kenya African National Union, the party which succeeded the proscribed KAU, May 27 swept to power in Kenya's first free elections. As KANU's president, Jomo Kenyatta will be prime minister. And soon the British East African colony is to be independent.

What next? Will Kenyatta seek to avenge his imprisonment? Will he wish to atone for the deaths of thousands of his fellow Kikuyu, gunned down by troops and police during the Mau Mau rebellion?

My own guess—and I knew Jomo well before his arrest—is that he will look to the future, not the past.

Kenyatta studied in Britain and in Russia. He has an English wife and son. But like most modern African leaders, he leans neither to East nor West; he is an African nationalist who will do what he thinks best for Africa and her people.

With the enormous challenge before them these men have little time to toy with sweeping ideologies. This is what the great powers tend to overlook.

'Outside' Names Break Tradition

ROME (AP)—Speculation stirred by the grave illness of 81-year-old Pope John has named these 10 cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church as among the large group which will provide his successor.

For the first time in recent centuries, non-Italians are on the list. There hasn't been a non-Italian pope since Dutch-born Adrian VI died in 1523.

The seven above are, from left, Cardinal Agagianian, 66, an Armenian member of the Vatican Curia, a sacred inner court; Cardinal Tisserant, 79, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals; four Italian members of the Curia, Cardinal Traglia, 68, Cardinal Castaldo, 72 (the archbishop of Naples), Cardinal Confalonieri, 68, and highly-regarded Curia official Ildebrando Antonetti, 64; and on the right, Cardinal Suenens, 68, archbishop of Brussels.

Ecuador Seizes U.S. Tuna Fleet

QUITO, Ecuador—The Ecuadorian navy said Wednesday its warships have "in custody" all 21 tuna boats in a U.S. fishing fleet from San Diego, Cal., accused of poaching in territorial waters.

The claim, by navy chief Capt. Ramon Castro Jijon, put a new light on the fishing war which erupted Saturday when the Ecuadorian patrol ship Jambell "arrested" the tuna boats White Star and Ranger.

The Jambell called for help when the other 19 ships in the U.S. fishing fleet prevented it from shepherding the White Star and Ranger into the nearest port, Puerto Esmeraldas.

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Rusk said he had cabled Ecuadorian Foreign Minister Benjamin Peralta asking immediate release of the ships and offering to submit the dispute to international adjudication.

High Russian Officers Demoted in Spy Case

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union demoted a marshal of artillery, at least two other high-ranking officers and a number of Soviet officials in connection with the recent espionage affair of executed spy Oleg Penkovsky, says Izvestia.

The marshal was Sergei Verantov, former chief of artillery, who was accused of blocking discharge of Penkovsky from the army and of getting him his job on the State Committee on Co-ordination of Scientific Researches.

It was from this committee that Penkovsky was accused of having passed a multitude of Churches Talk In B.C.

KELOWNA (CP) — A conference of clergy from Anglican and Roman Catholic churches in the Okanagan and Kootenay and West Kootenays opened Tuesday with observers from other churches attending.

Anglican Bishop W. B. Coleman of Kootenay said it was only the second such conference in Canada.

"None of us are naive enough, however, to think that full unity is around the corner, but there is a remarkable growth toward Christian unity and respect for each other's ideas," the bishop said.

Grits Win Again

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons finished its eight-day throne speech debate Wednesday without any further test of strength for the minority Liberal government.

Though a recorded vote of confidence could have been demanded by the opposition, the House settled for the traditional voice vote on the government's motion for an address in reply to the throne speech that opened the session May 16.

Now it's down to business—today the Commons will debate Prime Minister Pearson's motion to set up a special defence committee.

Immigration Minister Guy Pavlou indicated he will make a statement today on the status of Weiand Chan, a Chinese refused admission to Canada nearly four years ago and sought for deportation since.

Fisheries Minister Robichaud denied suggestions there was "deep dissatisfaction" over the government's decision to accept recommendations by the North Pacific Fisheries Commission.

Tom Barnett (NDP—Columbia), had asked for assurance the Commons fisheries committee would have an opportunity to review the situation.

Arrangements for the NATO conference last week in Ottawa cost the federal treasury $380,000, Finance Minister Gordon disclosed.

Prime Minister Pearson denied Canada is under any U.S. pressure to reduce gas and oil exports to the United States. He also indicated he doubts the U.S. will bring Canada under the oil-import quotas that now apply to other countries.

Be Dirty—Save Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—A newspaper has called on its readers to join the "great unwashed" for the duration of the drought here, regardless of the consequences.

A bath, says the English-language China Mail, is "a wanton luxury which we, as a city, cannot afford. If going without a bath means that Hong Kong may acquire an odor all its own, at least Khruchoyev can be proved right for once."

The Soviet premier last December taunted China for permitting the "odor" of a British colony off its coast.

No A-Weapons Church Decides

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian government should renegotiate its nuclear commitments and refuse the installation and storage of the weapons on Canadian soil, the B.C. conference of the United Church decided here.

Three-Way Probe Set Into Mystery Letter

OTTAWA (UPI)—The government has joined the U.S. and Britain in a three-way probe into the "mysterious letter" controversy involving Prime Minister Pearson and U.S. Ambassador Walton Butterworth, it was learned Wednesday.

Informed sources said the investigation was launched in the hopes of uncovering some evidence on who originated the apparently-forged document. Word of the investigation indicated a change in policy by Pearson's Liberal government, which first decided to drop the controversy. The British government was Ever Hear of a "DIURETIC"?

Maybe not. But you should know what a "diuretic" does. There may be times when you should use one. You likely understand how important the kidneys are to maintaining good health. Also that if the kidneys fail to function properly excess acids and waste material remain in the system. This may result in subsequent urinary irritation and bladder discomfort, often followed by backache, tired feeling and disturbed rest.

This is when the diuretic service of Dodd's Kidney Pills may be helpful. Dodd's act as a diuretic stimulant to help restore normal kidney action, and so relieve the systemic condition causing backache and tired feeling. When you are bothered by backache and tired feeling due to lazy kidney action you can depend on Dodd's Kidney Pills as many thousands have done during the past 70 years. Look for Dodd's at any drug counter.

Federal Spending Rockets

OTTAWA (CP)—Stepped-up preparations for Canada's centenary in 1967 and increased federal grants to the provinces and municipalities for civil defence are reflected in the sharply-increased 1963-64 federal spending estimates.

Included is $5,300,000 for grants to provinces and municipalities for civil defence and related purposes, up from $4,800,000.

Earmarked for centennial preparations in 1963-64 is $4,970,400, an increase of $2,815,200 over 1962-63.

The government is asking

Parliament for authority to pump another $35,000,000 into the Unemployment Insurance Fund this fiscal year if necessary.

The public expense of operating CBC radio and television services is estimated to rise by $4,435,000 to $78,439,000.

Rail subsidies totalling $70,000,000 are extended by the government in the estimates.

A $350,000 grant for a national cancer research project is provided as well.

Federal budgetary spending is increased by $316,355,381 to record $6,545,504,515, a rise of 5.1 per cent from the 1962-63 estimates of $6,229,169,134.

Over-all amount may be scaled down as a result of a study of possible economies in government organization and programs.

Cost of old age pensions—not included in budgetary outlays—rises to $735,000,000 from $735,355,368.

Defence budget is up $38,083,363 to $1,620,833,538, due almost entirely to recent armed forces pay increases.

Cost of family allowances is up $4,900,000 to $342,900,000. Federal share of hospital insurance rises $60,000,000 to $385,000,000.

Red Whalers Passing By

SEATTLE (AP) — A 20-year-old Soviet whaling fleet has taken at least 30 whales while moving northward about 300 miles off the Washington coast, the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries said Wednesday. The fleet is en route from Montevideo, Uruguay, to its home port of Vladivostok.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British psychiatrist says doctors now have cures for some forms of mental retardation.

Dr. Barry Wyndham Richards, deputy medical superintendent of St. Lawrence's Hospital, Caterham, Eng., said Tuesday that dietary treatment and blood transfusions in early infancy can often save a child from being mentally retarded.

He said that special diets can ward off phenylketonuria and galactosaemia, two forms of mental subnormality, and transfusions soon after birth can prevent retardation in rheumatism cases in which the mother produces substances which destroy her unborn child's blood.

"But so far," said Dr. Richards, "we have treatments for only a small fraction of cases. The best we can do most of the time is offer therapy and continue with our research into the cause of mental retardation. Mental retardation is just a symptom with a great number of causes."

Latest research has disclosed that chromosome abnormalities and biochemical factors were among major causes.

No Concern On Fallout

REGINA (CP)—Radioactive fallout still hasn't reached the level where specific counter-measures are considered necessary, says a member of the radiation protection division of the National Health and Welfare Department.

Dr. P. M. Bird said "there is no reason for serious concern about fallout," as it is just one source of radiation exposure.

Beware of Tonics for your Automobile

2nd Debut for Mother

Since She May Now
Lift Her Face Out of Lines and Wrinkles

The "Wiesbaden Discovery" has now come to Canada. Scientifically named CEF 600, it has been extracted from live tissue and compounded into smooth-flowing 2ND DEBUT. This natural ingredient penetrates the outer facial skin layer and carries into it millions of tiny loads of pure water that skin has lost during natural aging process. This water accumulates under lines and wrinkles and pushes these unwanted indentations upward. Progressively the face feels smoother, fresher. The face and neck look younger again. The result is often so startling you once again enjoy the rapt attentions that were bestowed upon you at the time of your FIRST debut. 2ND DEBUT is greaseless and pleasant to use. Try it today.

ON THE FAIRWAY with MAX FAULKNER

A couple of friends of mine, Guy Wolstenholme and Douglas Sewell, must be feeling they joined a secret society instead of the Professional Golfers' Association of Great Britain.

Let me tell you, even at the risk of being ostracized by a few other friends of mine, the story of their extraordinary plight.

Two years ago, after playing their way to the very top of British amateur golf, they decided to take the plunge as professionals. Wolstenholme walked out of a very lucrative job in the clothing business. Sewell equally gambled a secure if unseasonal living.

Both were, and are, very good golfers. They were the backbone of Britain's Walker Cup team against America. Wolstenholme, particularly, could have held his own against any British professional in almost any British tournament. He hit the ball far and had a tough, merciless streak that saw him through when the pressure was on.

A very useful man, you might say, to play for Britain in the Ryder Cup at Atlanta, Ga., next October.

But such are the closed-shop, secret-society rules of the PGA that Wolstenholme can't play in the 1963 Ryder Cup nor the next two years hence. Neither can Sewell. As responsible men and golfers of international experience they're still officially apprentices!

Points Snatched Away

By last week Wolstenholme had stacked up 81 points and Sewell 73 in the table-of-merit that will decide who goes in the team at the end of the tournament circuit. Immediately the points were snatched from them and reallocated to men who had finished below them in various events.

The rule still stands: "You will both have to complete the full five years as professionals before you become full members of the PGA and therefore become eligible for any Ryder Cup side," they were told.

What outdated, bigoted, niggardly rot! Anyone would think, the way we are treating these two guys, that great golfers grow on trees in Britain. The fact is that because of what is nothing less than a restrictive practice we could leave at least one of our toughest fighters to keep the home fires burning.

I wouldn't mind so much if I could genuinely see any saving grace in this five-year rule. But after a lifetime in the game I still can't find even one good reason for it to exist at all.

In fact, if we're all to start to lay down the law, I propose exactly the opposite . . . that no tournament professional can take a club job until he's had five years on the circuit.

Instead of teaching before he plays, he would then play before he teaches. At the moment there are a few who take on club jobs knowing virtually nothing about it at all.

In any case, there must be special provision for players when they turn professional in their late 20s or 30s as Wolstenholme and Sewell have done. It's ridiculous to submit them to the same apprenticeship regulations as if they were just leaving school.

Those Five Long Years

Just suppose, for example, that either the Cambridge or Oxford University teams suddenly produced a world-beating golfer. Presumably he'd be reasonably intelligent. Presumably, since golf could bring him in an enormous income, he'd think about turning professional.

Should he have to spend his time regripping clubs for 36-handicap no-hopers while he waits five years for his call to the colors?

I have no personal axes to grind in this case as I was one of the lucky ones. I was brought up in a golfing family and I don't mind admitting that a few strings were pulled to get me in the PGA with no time wasted.

At 17 I was playing in my first Open championship and justifying the strings-pullers by becoming the youngest player ever to qualify for the final rounds.

I had my break. Now look at another man who didn't—Eric Brown.

Brown was a professional footballer and a railway fireman before he turned to professional golf. He sat out his five years' apprenticeship but the scars are still showing. Eric Brown is the lone wolf of British golf. But show him an American in the Ryder Cup and you've got the toughest fighter of them all.

He's never lost to an American yet. But, how easily that five-year wait could have broken his spirit.

The same applies to Wolstenholme and Sewell. These are world-famous names and Britain at present is doing her best to bury them.

Brothers, I'm all for the Old Pale Act. But not when it goes that far.

THE Arnold PALMER METHOD

'QUICK' HIP RETURN
INCREASES CLUB SPEED

Long ball hitters generate much of their power by simply starting their hip return on the downswing BEFORE their hands and arms have completed their backswing.

In illustration #1 I have completed my hip turn away from the target; yet my hands and arms have not finished their upward movement. In illustration #2 my hands and arms -- and the club -- have progressed to the top of the backswing, but my hips have already uncoupled to the left.

This quick return of the hips further stretches my left arm and left side muscles so that they will return the club to the ball with maximum speed. This movement also clears my left side out of the way so that my hands and arms can move freely through the hitting zone (Illustration #3).

Assault on Indy Tradition

Will 'Offys' Succumb?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The record onslaught is expected to continue and a motor dynasty may tumble in the 47th Memorial Day 500-mile auto race today when 33 daring and skilled drivers roar off to nowhere before an estimated 200,000.

This merciless matching of men and machines—including four new breed cars—against the perils and pounding of 200 whirling around the mammoth Indianapolis Motor Speedway will pay off handsomely.

A record $500,000 total purse was envisioned in last-minute estimates, which would make the top prize well above the $125,015 won last year by Roger Ward, only two-time winner still wheeling.

Ideal racing weather—partly cloudy and in the 70s—is forecast.

The race is scheduled to start at 9 a.m. PDT.

Much has been made of a promise of only one pit stop by two of the new challengers of the Offenhauser regime—the Lotus-Ford to be driven by the Grand Prix pair of Scotland's Jim Clark and California's Dan Gurney.

The 23 Offys, including favored Parnelli Jones' pole position racer, usually need three pit stops for refueling and tire changes for the full 500-mile route.

But if the string of 16 successive wins by Offenhausers, the so-called invincible four-bangers, is to be shattered by the Lotus-Ford, two Chevy-powered entries—also rear-engineered Novis, the answer lies in today's moment of truth which stretches some 3½ roaring hours.

First-year driver Johnny Rutherford will be driving the lone Canadian car, the City of Victoria Special owned by Ed Kostelnik of Victoria.

Rutherford, of Fort Worth, Tex., qualified the car at 148.601 miles in today's moment of truth which stretches some 3½ roaring hours.

PARIS (AP)—A total of 1,927 French civilians in Algeria are missing and believed kidnapped or killed in the final months of the Algerian fighting last year, reports Jean de Broglie, secretary of state for Algerian affairs.

Both mainland games start at 8:30 p.m., with starting time for the Victoria match to be set later by the B.C. Soccer Commission.

"EXCLUSIVELY FORD"

EPSOM, England (CP)—Two old-fashioned betting gambles and a dozen playful fancies went down the drain Wednesday as the form horse from France—Francola Dupre's Relko—simply "skated home" in the 14th running of the Epsom Derby.

Making it look ridiculously easy, the compact bay colt by Tanerito out of Relance III brushed haughtily past pace-making Iron Peg and the 100-to-1 shot Targogan in the stretch to finish six lengths ahead of Ragusa, owned by J. R. Mullon, was third and Targogan fourth in the field of 28, including Count Albany owned by Calgary sportsman Max Bell, which finished far back after showing a flash of early speed. Reiko paid 5 to 1. It was France's sixth post-war triumph in England's premier classic and it came as a humiliating anti-climax after all the hoopla for the English horses which, except for Sir Foster Robinson's Merchant Venturer, finished straggling in the rear.

Established stars from the Pacific Northwest and a host of up-and-coming youngsters from throughout the province gather at Victoria High School June 22-24 for the annual Victoria CMAA TWCA track and field meet.

Day-long competition includes a separate meet in the afternoon for bantam, midget and juvenile categories. Openers are 100 and 200 yds., followed by the men's 400 and women's open events.

Juvenile age limit is under 18.

Increased participation of high school athletes who have benefited from the Junior Olympic Training Plan has officials talking optimistically of one of the best meets ever.

"Name" competitors will be announced later.

City Junior golf championships will be decided over 36 holes of medal play at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club Sunday, and Gary Smith is a solid favorite to retain the title he won last year.

Smith will be playing over his home course, and enters the tournament fresh from an outstanding performance in the Vancouver Island match play tourney, where he reached the final before losing out to Bill

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The Australian subsidiary of the U.S. firm has come up with a mechanical cricket bowler.

The American Machine and Foundry Company announced Monday night it has secured world rights to sell a machine that can bowl the small cricket ball to batsman for practice batting.

A similar machine has been used in the United States for baseball batting practice.

The firm said it has already received orders for its mechanical cricketer from Britain, Pakistan and New Zealand.

Bag of Pennies Too Heavy

A plastic bag containing 187 pennies played a key part in the conviction of Rodney Leason, 351 Bay, in city magistrate's court Wednesday.

Leason was charged in connection with breaking and entering of Bert's Fine Foods, 2376 Quadra.

Officers who had occasion to investigate the accused May 8 when they found him walking near the Fountain Circle testified he was carrying a plastic bag full of pennies in an inside pocket, a screwdriver and a pair of gloves.

Leason claimed the money had been given to him by his girl friend, Monica Dlott of Metchesin.

The girl backed up his claim in court but Magistrate William Oster was not very impressed, saying: "I don't believe her."

In the plastic bag was a smaller plastic bag containing five pennies, all minted in 1961. Store proprietor Egbert Van Ekker testified a similar bag was stored in a chest of drawers in the back of the store.

The small bag containing the five pennies was not mentioned in the girl's testimony.

Vancouver police identification expert Inap, Percival Easler testified marks made on the cash register drawer and sample marks made by the screwdriver found in Leason's possession corresponded.

Magistrate Oster pointed out the girl claimed to have given the pennies to Leason at 2:30 p.m. May 6. Leason was picked up two days later.

"It is unlikely the defendant would go around with a heavy bag of pennies in his possession for that length of time," he said.

Courtroom Parade

The magistrate said though the evidence was purely circumstantial it was overwhelming, and found Leason guilty. He will be sentenced this morning.

Dennis W. James, 140 Menzies, who Tuesday entered a plea of not guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent, altered his plea to guilty Wednesday and was released without bail.

"That was a funny thing for a man with a wife and child to do," Magistrate Oster said to the accused.

"I don't know what happened," replied James, "but I don't intend to have it happen again."

The case was adjourned until June 12.

Sarvan Singh, 713 Market Street, charged in city magistrate's court with wilful damage, was fined $50 and ordered to pay $40.85 damages.

Arresting officer Const. Albert Wilson testified Singh smashed a number of small windows in the Morley Company, 343 Herald.

A former Victorian, now living in Los Angeles, came forward voluntarily in Saanich to face court charges of assault and damage to property which were laid last Halloween.

The charges arose out of Halloween pranks with an air pistol.

David Harry Bradshaw was fined $75 on the charge of assault and an additional $25 for damage to property.

Delano F. Mitchell, 831 Hockley, was fined $10 on a charge of careless driving.

Saanich police testified Mitchell's car left a 66-foot skid mark while attempting to turn onto Brunswick Place from Tillikum and ended up on a vacant lot.

Organists Meet Here Saturday

Victoria chapter of the Royal Canadian College of Organists will hold its annual meeting at 8 p.m. Saturday at 1223 Wharf Street.

Following the business sessions, Ray Buckett will play some tape recordings of local choirs.

Paint-Up Plan May Snowball

The "real worth" of a paint-up scheme organized by city hall lies in its snowballing effect on other downtown businesses, Ald. A. W. Toone said Wednesday.

The chairman of the city's beautification committee was commenting on the announcement that a pilot project in the Greenwood block, 1109 Government, will begin next week.

J. A. C. Smith, owner of the building that contains four stores, has agreed to pay all labor costs involved and paint will be donated by the British America Paint Company. City liminary work required for planner Roderick Clark devised such a scheme.

The load of beautification projects carried by city hall will be donated by the previous Roderick Clark devised such a scheme.

Driving Charge

Private Detective Clears His Target

LONDON (AP) — Police tracked Mrs. Enid Aubrey as she drove home unsuspectingly from a night out with a man friend.

The cops were unsuspecting too. For when they looked her on a charge of driving while unfit through drink, they found a private eye had privately eyed it all.

In court Tuesday Mrs. Aubrey was cleared of the charge after the private detective, Brian Pavey, testified: "Mrs. Aubrey drove well." Pavey had been hired by Mrs. Aubrey's husband to watch her while he was abroad on business. She was returning from a night club with a lawyer friend when the cops nabbed her.

After the court cleared her she said:

"Naturally it was a shock to learn my husband had been having me followed. But I'm glad he did. And we're reconciled now."

Even Without Rain

No Water Shortage In Victoria Area

Up-Island areas may face a water crisis this summer. But south of the Malahat there will be plenty of moisture, even if it doesn't rain.

"The five big lakes on the watershed were full at the end of April," said Greater Victoria water district commissioner Ronald Upward Wednesday.

"There won't be any water shortage, only rationing in areas where the pipes are too small. Actually, we have enough water for 15,000 to 20,000 more people here," he added.

However, latest figures of samples taken at Forthbyden

Plateau and Upper Thelwood Lake show the water equivalent is well below average.

The implications are that forest fire hazards are greater than normal, that well owners might face dry times and some up-Island areas could be confronted with a shortage of water.

WITH CONFIDENCE On the other hand, B.C. Hydro and Power Authority looks ahead "with confidence" and does not foresee any power shortage whatsoever.

"We can meet any load that comes along," said B.C. Hydro regional manager for Vancouver Island, L. E. Wight, last night.

He said B.C. Hydro always uses the lowest water reserve figure to be on the safe side.

"In addition, we have thermal plants sitting at Chemainus as our insurance policy. This year, we won't have to use thermo power at all," he added.

Under normal conditions, 40 per cent of all water available up-Island in summer is supplied by runoffs from melting snow and 60 per cent by rain that fell during the preceding winter.

Church Painting Bee

About 25 men of the congregation of Christ Church Cathedral turned out last night for a painting bee to refresh the walls on each side of the cathedral below the arches. Among those helping were Cecil Dunn, 1887 Cochrane, left; Brian Gingell, 2184 Lafayette, and Dean Brian Whitlow. Plastic sheeting was used to protect the pews from splashes.

Builders Hail Federal Help

Announcement Wednesday that Ottawa will spend $435,000 on construction in Victoria this year was hailed by Douglas Hunter, retiring president of Victoria Building Industries Exchange, who said, "It is certainly going to help ease unemployment."

It is expected $300,000 will be spent on the start of a projected $1,000,000 office building on the east side of Vancouver between Pandora and Johnson to house the income tax and unemployment insurance branches.

Harbor improvements of $135,000 are expected to be worked toward the strengthening of the Causeway wall with construction of a pedestrian promenade along the water's edge.

Life membership in Victoria Building Industries Exchange was presented last night to William J. Hamilton who has filled every office in the exchange in the 17 years he has been a member.

New president of the exchange is George Langdon; vice president is George Farmer.

A special general meeting of the Victoria Building Co-operative Union has been called for 8 p.m. tonight to discuss progress of the new Victoria labor hall, now about half up.

Recommendations from a pollution committee will be heard during a special meeting of the Prospect Lake and District Community Association in Prospect Lake School at 8 p.m. today.

City police are trying to locate Ronald Ferguson for his brother, Gerald Ferguson of Renfrewshire, Scotland, who recently graduated from Glasgow University, plans to emigrate to Canada and has been out of touch with Ronald since 1957.

Full-scale replica of the old bastion which once guarded Fort Victoria is nearing completion on a hilltop in View Royal. Large size of the structure can be seen in contrast with the nearby crane and owner Herbert Plasterer, right foreground. — (Jack Fry)

He's Rebuilding Fort Victoria!

By JACK FRY

A View Royal motel operator interested in early Canadian history is building a life-size replica of Fort Victoria as a tourist attraction.

Herbert Plasterer, of The Canadian Crest, 340 Island Highway, hopes to have a bastion completed by June 4—120 years to the day, he said, when the bastion of the Hudson's Bay Company's Fort Victoria was completed.

Part of House

The motel operator hopes to acquire the old, central portion of Cloverdale House when that historic structure on Lovat Avenue is torn down to provide room for an apartment building.

He plans to reconstruct the home built by a former Hudson's Bay Company chief factor, near the site of the bastion and eventually build an 18-foot-high stockade around the area.

Old Guns, Tools

Antique furnishings, possibly an old muzzle-loaded cannon and old tools, guns and implements picked up in this area would round out what Mr. Plasterer thinks has the makings of a first class tourist attraction.

The motel operator has noticed that among the many American tourists coming here every year are a number of antique dealers.

Large Collection

"If they take everything down to the States, in a few years there won't be anything left here," he said, adding that he hopes to build up a large collection which the tourists can see but which would remain in Victoria.

Several hundred Indians and about 50 HBC men constructed the original Fort Victoria from hand-hewn logs.

Smaller Crew

The View Royal replica is being put together by a much smaller crew, and Mr. Plasterer even has to lend a hand now and then—12-inch by 12-inch wall beams are nearly 100 years old. The building material was taken from a number of old buildings torn down in this area in recent months.

The bastion was started in February and has three storeys connected by sturdy plank stairways. The roof is expected to be put on within the next several days.

Unique old bake oven in fireplace at Cloverdale House, examined here by Mrs. George Monckton, 1894 Hampshire, will be preserved if View Royal motel operator gets the old building for his Fort Victoria replica. Landmarks Threatened

Organization Needed to Save Famous Buildings

Buildings such as Cloverdale House will keep crumbling under the wreckers' crowbars unless a body is formed to accept funds and maintain the buildings, Dr. Hugh Borsman warned yesterday.

Dr. Borsman, chairman of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce's historical buildings committee, praised the courageous efforts of two Victoria housewives to save Cloverdale. "It points up the need for formation of a group to look after buildings which should be preserved," he said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. George

Monckton, 1894 Hampshire, and Mrs. Paul McCulloch, 1133 Goodwin, suffered their most severe setback just when it seemed the provincial government would pay for relocation of the old building.

They said their hopes were built up Friday when provincial secretary Wesley Black informed them the government would pay for taking down the central portion of the building, transporting it and erecting it at a new site. If they could find a site and a responsible group to accept the grant and donations from the public.

On Monday, they were informed by Mr. Black that the organization would also have to agree to maintain the Cloverdale building "in perpetuity" before the grant would be given, said Mrs. McCulloch.

The women went in person before the Sanich lands and planning committee Tuesday night and won from the committee a recommendation to commit the club to a forever basis.

They obtained from Victoria Kiwanis Club officials a promise that the club would accept temporary responsibility as agents for a public subscription and the government grant, until another organization accepted the responsibility of restoration and maintenance.

Then came the matter of the "in perpetuity" clause which the women said was tagged onto the government's offer, and Kiwanis officials declined to commit the club on a forever basis.

"I feel we have done what the government expected of us, but they haven't accepted anything we've given them. They have made it so difficult that it is impossible," said Mrs. Monckton.

"We feel as though we've been made fools. I'm awfully disappointed—this whole thing is hung up on a 'perpetuity' clause," said Mrs. McCulloch.

Dr. Borsman said that "by attempting to keep their finger in the dike, these two women have done more than we (the historical-committees) have ever done, because all we do is sit around and talk about it."

"They have shown us that by going out and knocking on doors they can get something done—they have seen just about every official in town and got his co-operation."

"One at a time the old buildings go, as the erosion of places of public interest continues," Dr. Borsman said.

"Every time we come up with a place like Cloverdale House, it isn't sufficiently important for us to say we have to save it. So it goes—and in a few years we will have nothing."

Controversy

He Wants Picture Of Caddy

Veteran Saanich Inlet guide Claude Creed plans to take along his camera on all fishing trips in the Mill Bay area in case Caddy appears again.

But, dean of the Brentwood boathouse owners, Harry Gilbert, says Caddy is nothing but a number of sea lions and the whole Caddy story is a myth, although he was one who reported seeing Caddy 25 years ago.

Other persons who said they have seen Caddy on various occasions told of sea serpents that differed in some ways to Caddy photo taken last week at Mill Bay by a visitor from Brandon, Man., Miss Nettie Ross, which appeared in the Colonist.

Still others ventured guesses that the monster pictured might have been an odd-shaped floating log with weed attached or rocks that had been uncovered during last week's extreme low tides.

WHALES SIGHTED Killer whales were sighted in Saanich Inlet Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, but the picture does not resemble the aggravating whales which are all too frequent visitors to this area.

Official explanation of Caddyborosaurus given last month by biologist Gordon Pike at Nanaimo was that it must be a sea elephant.

But Caddy found a large group of followers who thought he finally had been captured on film.

Aircraft flying over Saanich Inlet yesterday kept a careful eye out to see if the monster could be seen under water in the inlet, but flustered weather ruffled the surface of the water and spoiled vision.

ALL SEA LIONS "I'm inclined to believe that everything seen is sea lions," said Mr. Gilbert.

"I was equally convinced about 25 years ago that I had seen Caddy. I drew a sketch of what I had seen and compared it with what two of my friends had seen."

"But, I later saw a sea lion being chased by four or five others. The first one had his head out of the water and the rest had their heads down in the water, and it looked just like the serpent I had seen," Mr. Gilbert said.

Mrs. M. E. Davis, of Fulford Harbor on Salt Spring Island, said she has seen Caddy "many times" and that the first time was in June 1925.

LIKE GREAT SNAKE "It looks like a monstrous great snake about 150 feet long, with a brown-greyish color... dark like most sea monsters are," she said.

Mrs. R. A. Stewart, 5308 Westtime Road, who earlier this year saw Caddy near Gabriola Island, said that her monster had "a very strange head, followed by water, then skin of an animal's back, water and then another back."

Engineering firms from Toronto and Vancouver will act as consultants for a 12-month study of traffic throughout Greater Victoria that will begin within a month.

The survey will chart growth of traffic in the next three decades. The announcement was made Wednesday by Reeve George Murdoch, chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board. It ends a lengthy delay during which provincial government officials reviewed the original recommendation to hire only the Toronto firm.

B.C. PAYS BILL The province is paying half of the $67,000 cost of the survey while local members of CRPB share the remainder on a population basis.

Consultants on the job will be Traffic Research Corporation of Toronto, pioneer users of computers for processing traffic data in Canada, and the Vancouver firm of N. D. Lea and Associates.

DUTIES NOT AGREED Details of the allocation of duties between the two firms hasn't been agreed upon yet, officials said. This will be done before formal agreement is signed.

Reeve Murdoch said the necessity for determining accurately growth of traffic throughout the metro area in the next 25 to 30 years is vital. "We can't study land use or anything else without the information this study will produce," he added.

A. H. Roberts, director of CRPB, said the board will contribute a considerable amount of information to the consultants carrying out the survey.

DATA ON RECORD Much of this information, dealing with population growth during the period covered by the survey, distribution of income groups and numbers of private automobiles in each family, is readily available from its records. The rest will be gathered in co-operation with member bodies.

Three painters were going like a house afire yesterday until the house caught fire.

Flames from a painter's blow torch set fire to a window frame, which apparently smouldered until flames burst out in an unused basement bedroom, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Coles, 1248 Dallas Road.

NEARLY FINISHED Up to that point, workmen from the Plaza Paint Pot, 3645 Shelbourne, had been making good time. They had just about finished the house which they started to paint earlier the same day.

Killed in the blaze was Jackie, a budgie bird which was in the room where the fire started.

Okopeke, a cat which was in a room above the fire, was still ill from smoke hours after the blaze was extinguished.

A toy Pekingese named Ming was rescued from the house by George I. Warren, who lives next door. Mr. Warren took the animal to his home for safe keeping.

POINTER OUTSIDE A fourth pet, a German pointer named Val, was outside the house at the time. Estimate of damage was not known at press time, although firemen chopped away at the charred walls and ceiling of the basement bedroom, and smoke poured from all corners of the building.

FROM BASEMENT One of the painters said he saw what he thought was steam coming from a garage door in the basement about 3:30 p.m. He said he thought it was coming from a washing machine.

He opened the door and smoke belched out. The man ran next door to a home on Howe Street, from where the city fire department was called.

Neither Mr. Coles nor his wife was home at the time.

There were 274 pints of blood collected. At a clinic Tuesday at Sanson Hall, 166 pints were collected. A clinic will be held today at HMC Dockyard gymnasium at HMCB Venture from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

City's May Sunshine Breaks All Records

Victoria has already had more sunshine this month than was recorded in the whole of any previous May.

At sunset last night Victoria had had 343 hours and 54 minutes of sunshine in May, the weather office reported. Today and Friday will be added to that. Previous record, in May, 1956, was 338 hours and 48 minutes of sunshine.

Women's Efforts Lauded

Succession Duties and Taxes Can Be Hardship for Widows

By EILEEN LEAROLD

Miss Margaret MacLellan, Ottawa, president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, last night addressed the annual dinner meeting of the University Women of Victoria at the Gordon Head campus.

A graduate of Toronto University and a combines administration officer with the government in the capital, Miss MacLellan delivered a speech which should both provoke and inspire women of all educational levels.

Talking on "Horizons Unlimited," Miss MacLellan first emphasized the responsibility of the university graduate to the community. "Since much of one's education comes at public expense, it is only fair that this investment be returned."

One large community effort was to see that outstanding people were elected to public office.

She said that too often people were inclined to shrug politics off with the comment, "what can we expect from a poor candidate." But it was up to the public to support only the best.

Miss MacLellan pointed out another area in which university women were working, this was in studying the laws that determine succession duties, estate taxes and income tax.

"You realize," she said, "that many of our laws are cumbersome and unjust. In this field lawyers themselves aren't much help, they are there to administer the law, to look into precedents, but the basic laws themselves need amendment."

"Look at the hardships to widows from succession duties."

There are succession duties on my estate over $50,000. This sounds like a lot, but it isn't so at all.

"Examine the facts. You are widowed. You have only say $8,000 cash. But your house is worth $20,000, you have a pension of $2,000 a year, you have a car, and $20,000 life insurance.

"You are well over $50,000. Now, here is one fact the average woman doesn't know about her husband's life insurance. If he pays his own premiums the $50,000 is counted in his estate. If SHE pays the premium, it is not."

"Here is another fact. The $2,000 annual pension is based on an expectancy of the widow living until she is 72. If she inherits the pension at age 40 with another 32 years life expectancy ahead of her, she pays tax on the entire sum of $64,000. This is entirely unfair for if she dies before 72 she has paid tax on money she never had."

The speaker also felt women still encountered an invisible barrier of discrimination, and were not welcomed with open arms in many businesses and professions.

"More important than equal pay, I think, is equal opportunity."

Miss MacLellan, who represents some 10,500 university women in 107 clubs across the Dominion, stated one of the main efforts of this group is in the field of scholarships, fellowships and bursaries.

A highlight of the colorful evening was the attendance of seven Nigerian cadets at HMCS Venture, who wore their native dress. Also present as guests were six Canadian Venture cadets.

Dr. Olga Jardine introduced the speaker and Mrs. Hazel Hodson thanked her. Mrs. C. E. Stevens proposed the toast to the Alma Mater, Mrs. R. M.

Adamson introduced the Nigerian cadets.

NEW OFFICERS

Earlier in the day, Mrs. A. H. Gunning, retiring president, along with the outgoing executive and the newly-elected executive, entertained Miss MacLellan at luncheon at the Victoria Golf Club where covers were laid for 20.

Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs thanked the retiring executive, in particular Mrs. Gunning, who held the office of president for two years.

Mrs. J. L. Andrews has been named new president with first and second vice-presidents Mrs. R. A. Fraser and Mrs. J. W. McCammon. Mrs. J. F. Muir is recording secretary, Mrs. P. H. Thomas, corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. M. Cox is study group convener, and Mrs. F. M. P. Warren, social convener. Officers returned for another year are Mrs. Olga Bowes, Mrs. F. G. Hart and Mrs. J. J. O'Reilly.

Flowers Of Hair In Hair

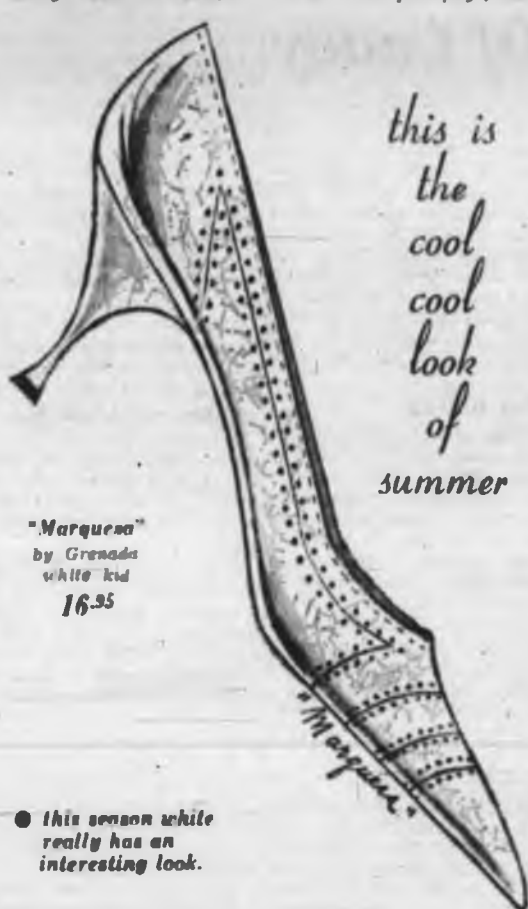

NEW YORK (UPI) — The flowers that bloom in the spring now go to a woman's head—as blossoming wiglets.

When weary of wigs, try flowers. Alexandre of Paris, who has coiffed some of the most famous—Princess Grace of Monaco, and Mrs. John F. Kennedy to name a couple—introduced the floral treatment at the last clothes collection of Dior.

He showed highly-lacquered pompadour fashioned of real hair on the mannequins. Shiny as waxed leaves—and sold like wiglets to match hair color—these foliage sprays are worn clipped to the top of the crown or cascaded backwards in a trailing cluster of petals.

The florals are more appropriate for evening when a woman wants her casual daytime style turned in a spectacular,

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: When I saw in the paper that you went to Russia a couple of years ago I figured you were a Commie. Now, after reading your answer to "Proud American," I am sure of it.

Just because the man wrote and said he was sick and tired of seeing foreigners come over here and get rich while red-blooded Americans can't even find jobs you called him an "ignorant malcontent."

The foreigners are the ignorant malcontents. That's why they come to America. They aren't satisfied over there so they come here to get rich. These foreign pigs elbow their way in by the millions. And what do they want when they get here? They criticize our government, our manners, our schools and our children. No matter where they came from it was always better "over there."

The foreigners worm their way into factories and businesses, starting at the bottom, pretending to be grateful and humble, and before you know it they are in the top jobs and the true Americans are out on the street.

I'm in favor of shipping five million foreigners right back represents 80% of the number of engineers graduated from United States schools during 1961.

Immigrants are making essential and laudable contributions to our country. They are not displacing "true Americans," they are creating jobs for Americans by contributing to this country's economy—R.N.W. OF THE U.S. COMMITTEE FOR REFUGEES.

Dear Ann Landers: I was deeply interested in your splendid reply to "Proud American" who complained because foreigners were coming over here taking jobs which should be reserved for "true Americans."

Over the past 10 years more than 100,000 immigrants entered this country, bringing with them skills declared to be in critically short supply in the United States. One of our most serious shortages, according to the U.S. Department of Labor, is in the field of engineering. Of the 100,000 especially skilled immigrants who entered this country in the past decade 31,000 were engineers. This

Reception At Naden

Baskets of white lilac and blue and gold iris decorated Queen of Peace Church, Esquimalt, for the marriage of Catherine Elizabeth Smith and Lieut. John David Lee. Nuptial mass was celebrated by Father Lewis MacLellan, assisted by Father J. P. Farrell. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Lee, Noranda, P.Q.

Marche Nuptiale from the Wedding Suite by Alan Caron was played by the organist, Mrs. L. Gill. During the signing of the register, the children's choir sang Ave Maria.

PEAU DE SOIE

The dark-haired bride chose an elegant gown of white pure silk, peau de soie, accented with a delicate rosebud design. The bodice featured a bateau neckline and long sleeves. The skirt swept from a wide front pleat into a graceful train, held in place by four white roses.

WHITE FLOWERS

Mrs. Norman Healey, matron of honor, and attendants, Miss Barbara Whiteley and Mrs. Richard Chaudley, were in identical gowns of azure blue peau de soie, styled with short belted skirts topped with fitted waist-length jackets of white lace. Their blue pill box hats were accented with lace. White marguerites were in their bouquets.

Mr. Robert Michael Lee was best man for his brother and Lieut. Germain Laviole and Lieut. Daniel Ogle ushered guests.

A sword belonging to the groom's father was used to cut the cake at the reception held in the Wardroom, HMCS Naden. The four-tiered cake was topped by a silver crown bearing linked rings. Father Farrell proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon in the interior of the province, the bride changed to a soft blue dress of pure silk, topped with a blue French wool coat with straight front and flared back. Blue-colored accessories completed her ensemble.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white organza over satin styled with lily point sleeves, scalloped lace and sequin neckline. A lace panel at the back was trimmed with organza roses. Red roses and white carnations were in her bouquet and a sequin studded crown held her chapel-length veil.

Mrs. Mary Lynn Webb was matron of honor for her sister-in-law and wore a dress of turquoise chiffon over taffeta with eyelid embroidered front panel and matching whimsy flower hat. White and turquoise carnations were in her bouquet.

CRISP CRUSTS

Freshly baked bread or rolls should be taken out of the pans as soon as possible. This keeps moisture from condensing and spoiling the crispness of the crust. Set loaves of bread on cooling rack or across the edges of the baking pans to cool, taking care not to have them in a draft. Cold air blowing over hot loaves makes the crust crack.

that Man in the Kitchen

Ninety-nine people out of a hundred when asked how to serve shrimp will reply "shrimp cocktail." The reason for this stock answer is that most menus in our restaurants nowadays include a shrimp cocktail. It is very seldom that other shrimp dishes are offered — a strange fact when you consider that the cocktail is by far the most expensive way of serving those delectable shellfish. In many other countries a much greater use is made of shrimp and recipes are legion, but we seem to leave it up to our Chinese restaurateurs to offer us a variety of dishes using this nourishing and satisfying sea food. Instead of using shrimp as a vehicle for a tangy sauce, let us consider one or two other recipes:

SHRIMP AU GRATIN

Four servings.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. One cup water; 1 small onion, sliced; 1 small clove garlic, sliced; leaves from 2 stalks celery; 1 small bay leaf; 6 peppercorns; 1½ pounds raw shrimp; ¼ cup butter; ¼ cup flour; 1 cup light cream or evaporated milk; 2 tablespoons sherry; ¼ to 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese; salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste.

In a saucepan bring the water to the boil and add the onion, garlic, celery leaves, bay leaf and peppercorns. Cover and boil for 5 to 6 minutes. Add the shrimp and bring to the boil again and simmer for 4-5 minutes. Drain, but reserve the broth. Shell and devein the shrimp. In a saucepan melt the butter, add the flour and stir until blended—allow to cook for two minutes but do not brown. Bring the strained broth and the cream to the boil and add to the butter and flour. Stir with a wire whisk until the sauce is thickened and smooth. Add the sherry, the shrimp and half the cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Pour the mixture into a well-buttered baking dish, sprinkle with the remaining cheese and place in the oven. Cook until the top is well browned and bubbly.

Oddly enough, beer goes well with shrimp; it makes a wonderful cooking liquid or may be used as a marinade. Here are two good recipes:

SHRIMP BOILED IN BEER

For four persons.

Two lbs. raw shrimp, fresh or frozen; 2 pints of beer; 1 clove garlic, peeled; 2 tapers, salt; ½ tspn. thyme; 2 bay leaves; 1 tspn. celery seed; 1 tspn. chopped parsley; ¼ tspn. cayenne pepper; juice of ½ lemon. Wash the shrimp, if desired, but do not remove the shells. Combine the remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Add the shrimp. Return to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer, uncovered, for two to five minutes, depending on the size of the shrimp. Drain and serve hot with plenty of melted butter seasoned with lemon juice and tabasco sauce, or cold with a mayonnaise and cognac sauce for shrimp. The shrimp may, of course, be shelled and deviled before serving.

The second recipe is for broiled shrimp and, of course, will work extremely well on the barbecue.

SHRIMP MARINATED IN BEER

For six persons.

Two lbs. shrimp, shelled and deveined; 1 tspn. chopped chives; 1 tspn. chopped parsley; 2 tapers, dried basil (optional); 1 tspn. finely chopped garlic; 2 tapers, dry mustard; ¼ tspn. freshly ground black pepper; ¼ tspn. celery salt; 1 tspn. salt; 1 pint of beer.

Marinate the shrimp in the remaining ingredients at least eight hours in the refrigerator, stirring frequently. Drain. Place the shrimp in a preheated broiler pan three inches from the source of heat and broil about five minutes, turning once.

An additional thought to bear in mind is that shrimp also makes an excellent curry and will mix with scallops or lobster magnificently. Bon appetit!

Technologists Told Trained People B.C. Answer To Competition

British Columbia is finding a way to help Canadian industry face today's stiff competition without losing its competitive ability.

E. C. Roper, principal of the new B.C. Institute of Technology in Burnaby, said here this week the institute is developing a new perspective in the problem of education, training and employment.

Mr. Roper was speaking to a meeting of the Society of Architectural and Engineering Technologists of B.C.

NEED FACILITIES
"The facilities to train adequate skilled manpower to maintain Canada's growth in the face of world competition are not currently available," he said.

"Research programs by the Department of Labor in Ottawa in co-operation with many other agencies in the Dominion on the training of skilled manpower to meet the growing need for improved and enlarged facilities."

CONSOLIDATION
"The department of education, the Association of Professional Engineers and other interested parties in the educational, professional and commercial fields have consolidated their desires for an institute of technology in this area," said Mr. Roper.

"Seventeen separate advisory committees, each in specific areas of the provincial economy have been formed to suggest courses of training, equipment and facilities necessary to train technologists," he said.

TWO-YEAR TRAINING
"A post-Grade 12 (university entrance) training of two years is envisaged in 12 science technology areas."

"These areas are architectural, chemical and metallurgical, civil and structural, electrical and electronic, food processing, forest and wood utilization, gas and oil, instrumentation, mechanical, mining and surveying; and three

Picnickers Beheaded

MANTLA (Reuters)—Headhunters beheaded two girls and a young man picnicking in the mountains of northern Luzon, police say. Four other picnickers escaped.

The headhunters' tribe has an ancient custom requiring its young men to obtain the heads of Christians before they can court tribal maidens.

Canada Makes Pact On Airline Fares

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has agreed to a compromise agreement over increased North Atlantic air fares, the Air Transport Board said Wednesday.

The compromise was reached by an emergency meeting of the International Air Transport Association in Montreal last Friday.

EMERGENCY TALKS

It was a continuation of emergency discussions held to resolve the dispute over application of fare increases agreed on last fall by IATA delegates at a meeting in Chandler, Ariz.

The United States Civil Aeronautics Board and the ATB refused to increase the fares when they were due to go into effect last April 1. The U.S. and Canada were the only two of the 19 countries whose airlines cross the North Atlantic to object to the increase.

ECONOMY FARES

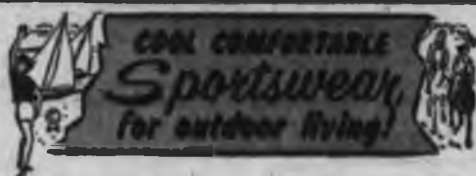

The compromise agreement calls for a fare hike of from three to five per cent on round-trip economy fares across the North Atlantic starting May 21 for the U.S. and June 1 for Canada.

On the other hand, one-way fares across the North Atlantic would be reduced by about $7 July 16. The rate structure would remain in effect until March 31, 1964, by which time IATA would presumably have been able to hammer out another structure.

Arena at 2 and 7 p.m. Saturday paid a flying visit to Victoria Wednesday.

Don Bellamy, who is running the show for the sponsoring Vic-Van-Lee Kinsmen Club, is drum major of the Vancouver city police pipe band and director and trainer of the Vancouver Optimists Junior pipe band.

Broad-shouldered and six-foot Mr. Bellamy has little to say about himself but he can speak at length on tattoos in general and his own junior tattoo in particular.

He arrived in Victoria at 11:15 a.m. and heads on Douglas Street turned his way at the sight of his band uniform—red, white and resplendent with the Royal Stuart tartan.

By noon he had transacted some business by telephone from downtown and was appearing on a local television show. At 12:45 he was checking details at the arena for Saturday's performances.

Then, almost without pausing, he was on his way back to Vancouver to participate first in a retreat ceremony at the courthouse and then at the opening of the Vancouver International Festival.

But he'll be back early Saturday along with all his Vancouver tattoo performers.

"We've got to have a dry run of the finale," he explained.

The tattoo employs more than 300 young performers and some veterans are 17 years old. There will also be a naval honor guard and the Victoria Girls' drill corps and the Chinatown Lions' Club drum and bell corps.

Mean Get Older, Meaner

LONDON (AP) — Mean people are liable to grow even meaner as they reach middle age, a psychiatrist says.

Meanness is caused by the slow degenerative change in the brain—part of the physical disabilities of growing older, Dr. Richard Crockett wrote in the magazine Family Doctor.

With this change, Crockett said, special elements in a personality become exaggerated because the normal controls of ordinary healthy adult life are lessened.

"When this happens the mean person gradually becomes meaner, the generous person becomes over-generous, the optimistic can become facile, and the querulous and aggressive become quarrelsome and excessively provocative."

Reeve Protests

Delta Radar Heaven Short-Circuited

A decision to remove "slow to 20" and "slow to 35" signs at two Tawwassen Highway crossings has drawn protests from the reeve of a municipality which was enthusiastically enforcing the low speed limits.

Reeve Clarence F. Taylor of Delta protested Attorney-General Bonner's order that caution signs replace speed limit signs at the intersection of Highway 10 and 17 and at Highway 10 and 56th Street.

There would have been impossible for motorists to slow from the 40-mph-an-hour speed limit on the main road to 35 and go back to 40 again in the 100-yard stretch at the intersection.

He said the 35-mph-an-hour sign was removed Wednesday.

Reeve Taylor said he wants to know what safety measures the highways department will take at the intersections and when overpasses will be built.

RADAR TRAPS
The attorney-general's action followed reports that Delta police had set up radar traps at one of the intersections, about five miles north of the Tawwassen ferry terminal.

There is a flashing amber light at the intersection.

Attorney-General Bonner ruled 35 miles an hour was only a suggested speed and could not be enforced.

A government official said it

Woodsmen Reject 20-Cent Hike

PORTLAND (AP)—A large lumber employer group made a wage increase offer Wednesday of 20 cents an hour over the next three years, but the IWA promptly termed it unacceptable.

The woodworkers have asked a 40-cent hourly increase over three years. The offer came from the Lumber Operators Council, representing more than 190 west coast employers.

The big six—Crown Zellerbach, International Paper, Weyerhaeuser, U.S. Plywood, St. Regis Paper, and Rayonier will meet the Woodworkers Friday.

Mrs. A. E. Johnston was installed president of the Oak Bay Junior High School PTA for the 1962-63 season at a recent meeting.

Mrs. D. Youlden has been elected president of the Tillicum-Hampton PTA.

Other officers are G. E. Harris, vice-president; Mrs. M. Oakman, secretary, and Mrs. H. Howell, treasurer.

NANAIMO—The provincial lands and forests department will survey the Nanaimo Bay area, 10 miles north of here, to assess its value for recreational purposes. Nanaimo Fish and Game Club has asked the government to set aside beach area for swimming and picnicking.

Gift of Park Pondered By Saanich

Saanich officials are investigating the possibility of the municipality providing land dedicated for park use as the site of a Gordon Head community recreation centre.

The matter was referred to planner Antony Parr and comptroller-treasurer John Tribe after a delegation from the Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society met the lands and planning committee.

The society proposes a new community hall, an Olympic-sized swimming pool, tennis courts and other recreational facilities in the area. The committee approved the proposal in principle.

Bad Czechs Get Probation

PRAGUE (UPI) — Eleven Czech students have been given suspended jail terms ranging from seven to 12 months for their part in May Day anti-regime demonstrations.

The sentences were commuted to probation terms because the defendants had no previous criminal record.

Nuclear Arms Containment Spurned by PTA

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Yukon Wednesday officially joined the 310,000-member Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation.

Acceptance of the Yukon group came on the third day of the five-day annual meeting of the federation attended by 47 delegates.

NO AFFILIATION

Previously the Yukon had no direct affiliation or voting privileges with the Canadian group. Delegates rejected a resolution asking the federation to oppose the spread of nuclear weapons to countries not now possessing them.

Delegates turned down a proposal that the body support all attempts to oppose total disarmament through negotiations.

POLITICAL ISSUE

"Our organization claims to be impartial and this is one of the hottest political issues today," the meeting agreed. "The question is currently being discussed in Parliament and we are not permitted to endorse any political party."

The meeting unanimously approved a recommendation for an international meeting of parent and teacher groups in Canada in 1967. Negotiations on an international level is the next move.

ARTICLE CRITICIZED

A Maclean's magazine article interpreted by the group as condoning pre-marital sex relationships among teen-agers was criticized by the delegates. The article was written by Pierre Berton in the May 18 edition of Maclean's. It was entitled "It's Time We Stopped Hounding the Kids About Sex."

Mrs. Helen Hewson, a Toronto columnist and chairman of the federation's home-life committee, said a friend's teenage daughter had showed the article to her mother and exclaimed: "It says here it's okay to do it!"

Royal City Picket Halts Work

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A lone mystery picket halted work for two hours Wednesday at the Evans Coleman and Evans Ltd. plant here.

About 45 members of the Teamsters' Building Material, Construction and Fuel Truck Drivers' Union, Local 213 refused to cross the picket line. Six members of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers' International Union crossed the line and went to work.

The picket refused to say who he represented or why he was picketing. He carried a placard saying: "An appeal is made to you to only patronize union bulk carriers."

Estimates

Spending To Set Record

OTTAWA (CP)—A record federal spending program of $6,545,504,515—with more to come—was handed to Parliament Wednesday by Finance Minister Walter Gordon for the current fiscal year. It was 5.1 per cent higher than last year.

He gave the Commons a wait-and-see notice that economy efforts of the new Liberal government may trim some of this basic spending plan for the 1963-64 year begun April 1. (See Page 7.)

BIG DEFICIT

But the increase made it virtually certain that Mr. Gordon will be forecasting another big deficit when he delivers his first budget speech expected in mid-June.

The former Conservative government predicted a $570,000,000 deficit for last year, and some revenue-reducing tax incentives to industry are anticipated in Mr. Gordon's budget.

DRAFTED BY TORIERS

The new estimates of budgetary spending, most of which were drafted by the Conservatives before they left office, compare with the $6,229,109,134 in 1962-63 estimates presented to the last Parliament.

Actual spending will be far higher than the budgetary estimates. These do not include an expected $755,000,000 in universal old age pensions, financed from special taxes, which would boost the spending total to $7,000,504,515.

MORE ADDED

Last year's $735,355,336 in old age pensions brought the total published expenditure program to $6,964,324,470. Final accounting for 1962-63, officials said, will add between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000 to this total.

Much of the boost in spending came from hospital insurance and other welfare measures, public debt charges, pay increases for government employees, and shipbuilding subsidies.

STUDY PROGRAMS

Mr. Gordon reserved the right to scale down items in the Conservative-written main estimates, and said the cabinet's Treasury Board is conducting a study of government programs which "will take some months to complete."

It was also "pressing forward" with a review of recommendations of the Glassco royal commission on government organization.

MUCH NOT COVERED

The new spending program, however, contains no funds for several new measures the government has said it will implement. As well, unforeseen costs always crop up as the year progresses, requiring supplementary appropriations which in recent years have ranged from $120,000,000 to $280,000,000.

These will have to be taken into account in Mr. Gordon's budget speech in which tax and fiscal policies for the coming year will be charted.

Church Love-Text Urged

NEWARK, England (AP)—The young wife of a local vicar suggests the Church of England should publish a text book on love-making.

Too many wives neglect to learn the art of love, Mrs.

Barbara Lacey wrote in her husband's parish magazine.

Mrs. Lacey, 34, and mother of two, is the wife of Rev. Ronald Lacey, vicar of the Anglican Church of St. Leonard.

"Many women who please men outside marriage take great pains over this part of their education," she wrote.

"Must we pass on to our daughters the advice given to so many of us by our mothers—not by mine—that sex must be prudently or graciously given as a present for a good boy?"

"When we can tell them, and our sons, that snatched 'bits of fun' can't compare with the variety of excitement there can be in a lifetime between husband and wife, then perhaps they'll think marriage worth waiting for."

Police Probe Race Bars In Canada

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police has begun an investigation into the refusal of a Stephenville, Nfld., club to admit 30 Negroes from nearby American Harmon Air Force Base.

Secretary of State J. W. Pickersill said Wednesday.

Quarrelled in the Commons by New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas, Mr. Pickersill said the probe was ordered by the Newfoundland government after complaints about the Club Club, operated by a U.S. citizen.

ROBERT KENNEDY
... naive shocking

Kennedy Concerned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A deeply concerned President Kennedy moved on a series of fronts Wednesday to combat discrimination against Negroes in hope of preventing future racial violence.

Climaxing a day of swift-

moving activity, Attorney General Robert Kennedy and a group of his aides met privately at the White House with presidential advisers to plan new legislative and other civil rights moves.

The chief executive underscored his personal concern earlier by inviting home 100 businessmen to meet with him Monday to discuss difficulties facing Negroes in "securing employment and equal access" to stores, theatres, hotels and other public places.

The blow-up is due to take place at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa on June 10.

Governor Wallace, 43, has declared that he will place his five-foot-seven-inch frame in the doorway to block the entrance of any Negro student—a piece of fulmination that has prompted the latest joke around Tuscaloosa: the works department is going in to rebuild the doors and make sure they are all five foot seven inches high, and narrower where the head is.

Seven years ago the University expelled its first Negro, Miss

Pope John Continues To Gain

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John, showing continued improvement in his struggle for life, has regained some of his color and has been able to read.

Pope's illness is focusing attention on College of Cardinals — See BACKGROUND, Page 8. See also Page 8.

pray and meditate, the Vatican reported Wednesday night.

Massive blood transfusions that boosted him through his worst crisis Tuesday apparently still were having effect.

Pope John's Rome physician, Dr. Piero Mazzoni, examined the 81-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church Wednesday evening, then left the Vatican. Other medical attendants stood by.

Despite the reported improvement, the Vatican acknowledged for the first time that the Pope's illness is grave and that he has been through acute crisis. The threat of a new crisis is always present.

MOOD RELAXED

The mood at the Vatican relaxed somewhat, however. One report said that Dr. Piero Mazzoni, one of the physicians, told a high prelate that if the Pope continues showing improvement he might be able to rise from his bed in a week or so to sit in a chair.

The Vatican press office announced late Wednesday night it was closing down until morning.

TRANQUIL NIGHT

A Vatican communiqué published by the newspaper L'Osservatore Romano Wednesday said the Pope had "a night of tranquil repose during which he did not need assistance."

Examination by Dr. Mazzoni at 10 a.m. Wednesday showed clear improvement in the Pope's general condition, it said. The doctor had spent eight straight nights in the Vatican palace.

NOTE OF CAUTION

But there was a note of caution.

The communiqué spoke of "acute moments of crisis" and said the Pope had not suffered "any lapses or bewilderment" during them.

White Man In Kenya Cabinet?

NAIROBI (UPI)—Jomo Kenyatta, whose party won Kenya's parliamentary elections this week, will bring at least one white man into his cabinet, informed sources said Thursday.

The former Mau Mau leader is expected to name Bruce McKenzie as minister of agriculture.

The sources said labor leader Tom Mboya will become the nation's first foreign minister, James Gichuru the treasury minister and Oginga Odinga the home secretary.

Out But In

Four members of British Guiana parliament, including Premier Cheddi Jagan, above, were ordered removed Friday for "deplorable behavior" in debate over new emergency laws. But Speaker Rhaman Gajraj couldn't enforce removal order because sergeant-at-arms was on strike.

German Church Told

'Resist Red Abuses'

BERLIN (AP)—The leadership of the Protestant church in East Germany has directed its subordinates to stand up to abuses of the Communist regime and resist efforts to restrict church affairs.

In a significant document unanimously approved by a church conference in East Germany last March, the church said it recognizes the regime since the "bearers of state power remain in the hand of God."

"But, it added, 'the church must not condone any misuse of this power, even if we must suffer.'"

Otto Dibelius, bishop of the Evangelical Protestant Church, has said that because of the nature of the Communist regime, Christians should resist any laws that infringe on their religious principles. Bishop Dibelius heads a district divided between East and West Germany.

A copy of the document was obtained by The Associated Press and its authenticity confirmed by church officials. There has been no comment on the document yet from Communist officials, although church spokesmen said they are aware of its existence.

"We would act in disobedience to God if we do not stand up for truth, if we remain silent when state power is abused and if we are not ready to obey God more than human beings," the church declared.

Two Monks Offer Lives For Freedom

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Two South Vietnamese Buddhist monks have volunteered to commit suicide to dramatize demands for more religious freedom.

Rev. Thien Minh said Wednesday the Viet Nam Buddhist Association was studying the offer but had not yet decided whether to accept it.

The Buddhists, who make up about 80 per cent of the population, claim the government under Roman Catholic Premier Ngo Dinh Diem discriminates against them.

DOUGLAS FISHER

All Parties Failed Says Blunt MP

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons' self-appointed critic, Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur), bluntly cautioned all parties Wednesday against moving toward another election.

Surveying the rows of empty Commons seats, Mr. Fisher, a history teacher and newspaper columnist, tipped off the handful of MPs of the unpleasant remarks to come by remarking on the "contagious excitement of this mass audience."

Then he hit them all, including himself, with the flat statement that the April 8 election showed all political parties to be failures. The Liberals were the greatest because they'd been talking in terms of winning 100 or 170 seats instead of the 129 they emerged with.

The New Democratic Party, his own, showed itself a failure as a national force, he said.

More U.S. Jets in Canada?

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Rusk said Wednesday the United States seeks to settle outstanding nuclear issues with Canada in the fullest spirit of co-operation.

Rusk commented on a Washington Post report that the U.S. would like to base eight new interceptor jet squadrons in Canada as part of an air defence buildup but that the Pearson government is opposed to the idea.

While both governments have officially denied the report, military informants said.

These informants said North

American air defence authorities favor greater flexibility in the dispersal of NORAD jet squadrons; increased capability of Canadian squadrons to move to forward or alternate bases, and greater manoeuvrability of U.S. plants across the Canada-U.S. border.

One informant suggested a possible compromise is that the Canadian government will allow U.S. plants to make an increased number of flights over Canada with nuclear weapons.

Informal Notice Given

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has received "informal" notice that the United States government intends to make some proposal about stationing more U.S. fighter squadrons in this country, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said in the Commons Wednesday.

However, no official communication has been received.

Racial Crisis Snowballing

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—A key ruling in Birmingham Wednesday on a federal integration suit and a battle between police and pickets in Philadelphia underscored the nation's snowballing racial crisis.

In the Birmingham ruling U.S. District Judge Hobart Grooms dismissed a government suit seeking integration of public schools near the nation's flight centre at Huntsville, Ala.

"He's gonna belt me again with that stick," I thought, and shoved the tickets back in my pocket.

"Sevier tapped out that afternoon. The next day, Sunday," he said, "Come on down to Kilmer's place in Virginia. I want to get some money." Willis Sharpe Kilmer had Sun Beau, the world's leading money winner then.

"We went down in Sevier's big old LaSalle with me at the wheel, Sevier alongside, and his big old bird dog, named Dell, in the back seat. Kilmer gave us lunch. The three of us were at this long table and Dell was sleeping in the corner.

"Sevier," Kilmer said, "I'll give you $800 for Dell." Sevier just kept eating. "Sevier," Kilmer said, "I'll give you $1,100 for Dell." No answer, kept on eating. "Sevier," Kilmer said, Sevier slammed his fork down. "My good man," he said, "you couldn't give me your Best dog for Dell."

He took a notebook and sketched a design. 'Give this man $40 for a deposit,' he told me.

Good pitching, sparkling defense and timely hitting have been all there in the Minnesota climb.

In a surge which coincided with the return to action of slugger Harmon Killebrew, the Twins have won nine in a row and 11 of 12. They are fifth, but challenging for third place and looking all but unbeatable.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. (AP)—

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Angels said Wednesday they will ask baseball commissioner Ford Frick to place playboy pitcher Bo Belinsky on the disqualified list because he has refused to report to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League.

Belinsky, who had won only one of eight games for the Angels this season, was optioned to Hawaii Saturday night. But he decided later that he didn't want to go to the island.

Angel general manager Fred Haney said Belinsky came to him Tuesday and asked if he could be put on the voluntarily retired list. Had such a procedure been followed, Belinsky

Heaney said he decided, instead, to have Bo put on the disqualified list from which he can be withdrawn any time he chooses to request to Hawaii.

$1,000,000 for Island

More than $1,000,000 is included in federal public works estimates, tabled in the House of Commons yesterday, for up-island construction.

All the allocations are for harbors or dredging work with the largest amount, $500,000, set down for a start on construction of a boat harbor at Nanaimo.

FOR REPAIRS

Next largest amount, $200,000, is allocated for repairs to the assembly wharf at Port Alberni and $165,000 has been allowed for construction of a boat harbor at Ganges.

For dredging at Sooke, $80,000 has been allowed; $75,000 for completion of the fishing boat wharf at Shoal Harbor, and $51,000 for repairs to the wharf at Zeballos.

ITEM DELETED

The Nanaimo boat harbor had originally been included in the estimates of the Conservative government at a price of $600,000. However, the item was deleted in the revised estimates following last year's austerity program.

"Things are really looking up," commented Mayor Pete Maffeo at his home in Nanaimo after receiving a telegram from NDP — MP Colin Cameron announcing the estimates.

"This harbor could easily be the largest industry within our city limits. Why, we could get 300 to 400 fishing boats in there, and with our new school, and new hospital we'll have fishermen making their homes here and boosting the city."

The mayor went on to talk about boat repairs and marine services and said he hopes the harbor will be constructed as soon as possible.

Miss Port Alberni Tourist Office Boss

PORT ALBERNI — Valerie Pringle, first Miss Port Alberni, will be in charge of Alberni Valley tourist bureau when it opens in its old location June 15.

Mrs. Edna Souther, chairman of the tourist committee, reported at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Miss Pringle has been engaged as assistant at the bureau and she will be contacting businessmen of the area on behalf of Alberni Valley tourist committee to collect funds for the promotion of tourism here.

She said the expanded committee is working on plans for a convention which would bring 300 people to the area next June for seven days.

Petty Officer Judged Best Alberni Cadet

PORT ALBERNI — Petty Officer Hemmy Rutenbeek was judged best all-round cadet of Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Alberni and received the Hugh Reid trophy at the annual inspection of the corps Tuesday evening.

The award was presented by the donor following the parade and exercises at which Navy Capt. P. Padmore was inspecting officer.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Wm. Bowditch, area commander, accompanied Capt. Padmore, along with officials of the Navy League of Canada.

Cadet Ivan Whipp received the women's auxiliary trophy given each year to the best first-year member, while Cadet Rumeny was the winner of the S. C. Stocken award for outstanding leading seaman.

Worker's Death Ruled Accidental

'Raise Age' For Drivers

COURTENAY — The age at which children can legally obtain a driver's licence should be raised to 18, Magistrate T. G. Ryan told a PTA panel here.

Mr. Ryan, a young city lawyer, feels a child becomes an adult in the eyes of the law at that age and that is the proper age at which a young person should be allowed to drive.

He said giving children a driver's licence puts into inexperienced hands a tool for the committing of offences.

CAMPBELL RIVER — An inquest jury Wednesday ruled the death of Joseph Joyal, 77, killed Tuesday under a crane here, as accidental, "caused through being crushed under a falling crane" with no blame attached to anyone.

Death was "instant from shock caused by severe crushing injuries to the chest," medical evidence showed.

Colleagues testified Joyal for some unknown reason was standing under a 20-foot long boom section of a crane being taken out.

Joyal had only been on the job at the $35,000,000 extension of the Elk Falls mill of Crown Zellerbach Ltd. near here since Monday. Burial will be at Langley.

Divers Find Propeller

NANAIMO — When a 70-foot tug steamer sank in Nanaimo harbor in 1945, all ever found was the nameplate — until this week.

Diver Sonny Hodgson came up with a propeller that has been identified as that of the Can-Pac. When a freighter slammed into the old coal dock in 1945, the dock toppled on the anchored Can-Pac and she disappeared.

Ex-captain of the Can-Pac, Dawson Norrish, said the propeller is from his old boat.

CHERMAINUS — Westholme man Clifford White pleaded guilty in police court to careless driving. He was fined $50 and his driver's licence was suspended for 12 months except for going to and from work. A fine of $10 was imposed on William Chalmers of Ladymouth for speeding on the Trans-Canada Highway.

He's Rebuilding Fort Victoria!

By JACK FRY

A View Royal motel operator interested in early Canadian history is building a life-size replica of Fort Victoria as a tourist attraction.

Herbert Plasterer, of The Canadian Crest, 340 Island Highway, hopes to have a bastion completed by June 4-120 years to the day, he said, when the bastion of the Hudson's Bay Company's Fort Victoria was completed.

Part of House

The motel operator hopes to acquire the old, central portion of Cloverdale House when that historic structure on Lovat Avenue is torn down to provide room for an apartment building.

He plans to reconstruct the home built by a former Hudson's Bay Company chief factor, near the site of the bastion and eventually build an 18-foot-high stockade around the area.

Old Guns, Tools

Antique furnishings, possibly an old muzzle-loaded cannon and old tools, gun and implements picked up in this area would round out what Mr. Plasterer thinks has the makings of a first class tourist attraction.

The motel operator has noticed that among the many American tourists coming here every year are a number of antique dealers.

Large Collection

"If they take everything down to the States, in a few years there won't be anything left here," he said, adding that he hopes to build up a large collection which the tourists can see but which would remain in Victoria.

Several hundred Indians and about 50 HBC men constructed the original Fort Victoria from hand-hewn logs.

Smaller Crew

The View Royal replica is being put together by a much smaller crew, and Mr. Plasterer even has to lend a hand now and then—but 12-inch by 12-inch wall beams are nearly 100 years old. The building material was taken from a number of old buildings torn down in this area in recent months.

The bastion was started in February and has three storeys connected by sturdy plank stairways. The roof is expected to be put on within the next several days.

Unique old bake oven in fireplace at Cloverdale House, examined here by Mrs. George Monckton, 1894 Hampshire, will be preserved if View Royal motel operator gets the old building for his Fort Victoria replica. Mrs. Monckton is one of two housewives here leading a fight for preservation of Cloverdale House. — (Jack Fry)

Landmarks Threatened

Organization Needed to Save Famous Buildings

Buildings such as Cloverdale House will keep crumbling under the wreckers' crowbars unless a body is formed to accept funds and maintain the buildings, Dr. Hugh Borsman warned yesterday.

Dr. Borsman, chairman of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce's historical buildings committee, praised the courageous efforts of two Victoria housewives to save Cloverdale House.

"It points up the need for formation of a group to look after buildings which should be preserved," he said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. George

Monckton, 1894 Hampshire, and Mrs. Paul McCulloch, 1152 Goodwin, suffered their most severe setback just when it seemed the provincial government would pay for relocation of the old building.

They said their hopes were built up Friday when provincial secretary Wesley Black informed them the government would pay for taking down the central portion of the building, transporting it and erecting it at a new site, if they could find a site and a responsible group to accept the grant and donations from the public.

On Monday, they were informed by Mr. Black that the organization would also have to agree to maintain the Cloverdale building "in perpetuity" before the grant would be given, said Mrs. McCulloch.

The women went in person before the Saanich lands and planning committee Tuesday night and won from the committee a recommendation to council for a site to be given for the house.

They obtained from Victoria Kiwanis Club officials a promise that the club would accept temporary responsibility as agents for a public subscription and the government grant, until another organization accepted the responsibility of restoration and maintenance.

Then came the matter of the "in perpetuity" clause which the women said was tagged onto the government's offer, and Kiwanis officials declined to commit the club on a forever basis.

"I feel we have done what the government expected of us, but they haven't accepted anything we've given them. They have made it so difficult that it is impossible," said Mrs. Monckton.

"We feel as though we've been made fools. I'm awfully disappointed—this whole thing is hung up on a 'perpetuity' clause," said Mrs. McCulloch.

Dr. Borsman said that "by attempting to keep their finger in the dike, these two women have done more than we (the historical committee) has ever done, because all we do is sit around and talk about it."

"They have shown us that by going out and knocking on doors they can get something done—they have seen just about every official in town and got his co-operation."

"One at a time the old buildings go, as the erosion of places of public interest continues," Dr. Borsman said.

"Every time we come up with a place like Cloverdale House, it isn't sufficiently important for us to say we have to save it. So it goes—and in a few years we will have nothing."

South of Malahat Safe

Water Crisis Possible For Up-Island Areas

Up-island areas may face a water crisis this summer. But south of the Malahat there will be plenty of moisture, even if it doesn't rain.

"The five big lakes on the watershed were full at the end of April," said Greater Victoria water district commissioner Ronald Upward Wednesday.

"There won't be any water shortage, only rationing in areas where the pipes are too small. Actually, we have enough water for 15,000 to 20,000 more people here," he added.

However, latest figures of samples taken at Forbidden Plateau and Upper Thelwood Lake show the water equivalent is well below average.

The implications are that forest fire hazards are greater than normal, that well owners might face dry times and some up-island areas could be confronted with a shortage of water.

WITH CONFIDENCE

On the other hand, B.C. Hydro and Power Authority looks ahead "with confidence" and does not foresee any power shortage whatsoever.

"We can meet any load that comes along," said B.C. Hydro regional manager for Vancouver Island, L. E. Wight, last night.

He said B.C. Hydro always uses the lowest water reserve figure to be on the safe side.

"In addition, we have thermal plants sitting at Chemainus as our insurance policy. This year, we won't have to use thermo power at all," he added.

Under normal conditions, 40 per cent of all water available up-island in summer is supplied by runoff from melting snow and 60 per cent by rain that fell during the preceding winter.

AMPLE SUPPLY

Indications are there is ample rain water supply, but a below to well below runoff is expected from snowpacks.

Sampling at Forbidden Plateau near Courtenay Tuesday showed a water equivalent of 34.4 inches compared with the six-year average of 52.7 inches.

Last year, the Forbidden Plateau water equivalent stood at 33.0 inches, and in 1961 at 60.8 inches.

At Upper Thelwood Lake on the Island, water equivalent measured 19.1 inches, while last year's supply was an ample 31.6 inches.

Boy Sights Body Of Sister in River

PORT ALBERNI — Leslie Frances Smith, 7, drowned in the Somass River while playing along the bank of the stream near her home Tuesday.

The girl's body was sighted floating in the river by her brother Keith, 10, who ran to a nearby house and got help.

PLUNGE IN RIVER

Ronald Miller and Edgar Fenton, both employees of Miller Roofing, plunged into the river and brought the body to shore.

Alberni fire department in-children of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Smith, 1057 River Road.

Funeral rites will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in Stevens funeral chapel.

Born in Inverness, Scotland, Leslie came with her family to Canada 5½ years ago and had lived in the district since last December.

Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Allison, 9; two brothers, Keith, 10 and Jason, 2. Capt. Keith Hall of the Salvation Army will conduct the services in the chapel and at the graveside in Greenwood Cemetery.

Meters Anger Somenos Water Users

NORTH COWICHAN — Dissatisfied users of the Somenos water system recently met with council members and were assured by Reeve Donald Morton their request to have the billing for metered water rates delayed until October will be considered.

Until last April the users had paid a flat monthly rate of $4.50 and a recently adopted new council policy combined with the installation of meters has the same basic rate for a maximum of 750 cubic feet per household.

ONLY 15 CONSUMERS

At present 15 consumers are connected to the system but for several empty lots the Veterans Land Act is paying the monthly rate. The main complaints of the Somenos residents are the new meter system and sub-standard condition of the system.

The service now consists of a two-inch pipe and two pumps which for some portions in that district are insufficient in the dry season. Consumers feel the lake should provide enough water all year round.

TO AVOID EXCESS

Reeve Morton said the meter proposal was adopted by council to avoid excessive water use through sprinkling.

One Somenos resident, Vernon Armstrong, complained the council never should have taken over the sub-standard system from the Act administration, which in turn took it over from a private concern at the lake.

Reeve Morton said the council several years ago only reluctantly took over the system as it was fully aware of the system's low standard, but council finally obliged in the interest of the residents at Somenos Lake.

REASONABLE AMOUNT

Coun. Tony Staples said the only way to overcome the present shortcomings of the water system at Somenos is to put in the meters. Reeve Morton said the meters will give users a reasonable amount of water during a hot spell.

Coun. Staples said the council is fully aware of the Somenos problem but, as every water system must be self-supporting, the consumers concerned must pay for improvements.

SELLING BONDS

Raising the money can be done by selling bonds or to have more users, Coun. Staples said. Water consumer William Dwyerward said it would make no sense to have more people on a water system which at present is not able to provide enough water to householders already connected.

Following a heated exchange of words during the meeting, Reeve Morton told the Somenos residents council will not give in to pressure but council certainly would do everything it could.

Rural Vancouver Island

Ex-Grocer Noted As Landscaper

By KLAUS MUESTER

DUNCAN — Perhaps two significant factors stand out in Jerry Hebers' success story. First, only a few years ago he was a grocer in Amsterdam, Holland, and second, his original love-to grow things—materialized in his Dogwood Gardens about three miles south of Duncan on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. Hebers is not just an ordinary nursery man but specializes in trees, plants and shrubs. One of the interesting features are the rare specimens of trees not too widely known here.

IN THE ATTRACTIVE front part of his two-acre property near the meandering splashing of an artificial waterfall, little pines from Italy stand beside wild flowering shrubs native in Africa, bougainvillea.

An intricate Spanish fir nourishes its roots in the same soil as does a eucalyptus from the Himalayan region, pines from Corsica and Italy, manna trees from Israel, umbrella palms from Japan and a spruce from Arizona.

EVERYTHING in the international assortment Mr. Hebers grows from seeds. Tender Edelweiss plants thrive as well as mimosa, flowering maples and olives in the greenhouse.

One special feature is the abundance of camellias at the Dogwood Gardens and six varieties of dogwood. Mr. Hebers said although dogwood is a native of Vancouver Island, all his trees are grown from small plants imported from Holland.

BE SAID EACH year Canada and the United States import between $375,000,000 and $400,000,000 worth of seeds and plants from his former homeland.

COMING FROM the Netherlands in 1957, Mr. Hebers did not spend much time in Ontario but succumbed to the lure of the west and particularly of Vancouver Island. He was joined by his wife and his small son Rene before the family established the first nursery at Bench Road in September, 1958.

Not long after they moved to the present location, Mr. Hebers does not regret giving up his grocery store in the old country. His reputation as a landscape gardener has won him contracts here and in Nanaimo.

FOLLOWING THE successful 4-H field day at Duncan last week, another similar event will be held at the Exhibition Grounds at Saanich on Saturday, June 1, at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

South Vancouver Island 4-H supervisor Ken Jameson, who with his Duncan staff will manage the event, said about 200 youngsters are expected to take part.

FOUR-H CLUBS participating are: Luxton Gardens, Luxton Poultry, Luxton Holstein, Metchoin, Metchoin Home Arts, North Saanich Goat and South Saanich Goat, Saanich Ayrshire, Saanich Holstein, Saanich Home Tractor, Saanich 3S Beef and VIRBA Rabbit Clubs.

The classes and judges will be: Dairy, Mrs. Neil Reimer; beef, Alex Turner; goats, Mrs. Charles Maude; poultry, Percy Riddle; rabbits, Mrs. Hazel Humphries; home arts, Mrs. Ken Cronk; and garden, Mrs. William McDowell.
